Interesting Congressional Proceedings—Funeral of Secretary Windom—The Apportionment Bill will Likely Become a Law.

[From our regular correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 2, 1891.

Hon. William Windom, ex-Representative, ex-Senator and Secretary of the Treasury, was apparently in good health when he left here last Thursday for New York, where he went to speak before the New York Board of Trade and Transportation; to-day official Washington saw, with tear-dimmed eyes, his remains lowered to their last resting place in beautiful Rock Creek cemetery. It all seems like a horrible dream, and I find it extremely difficult to realize that this big-brained, big-hearted, whole-souled American is dead; that I shall never see the bright, cheery smile with which he always received a newspaper man in quest of information—and he always got it, too, if it was in the Secretary's power to give it to him.

There were two services over the corpse, one private, at his late residence, and the other public, at the Church of the Covenant, of which Mr. Windom was a member. Owing to the general desire on the part of the officials and members of Congress to attend the funeral, it was necessary to have admission to the church by ticket only. By eleven o'clock to-day every seat in the capacious church was filled and hundreds were sitting in the aisles. Among them was the President, the Justices of the Supreme Court, the entire diplomatic corps, all of the departmental officials of prominence, all the army and navy officials now in Washington, and, I believe, every Senator and Representative in the city. A more impressive scene I have never witnessed than that presented when the remains were taken into the church, followed by Mr. Windom's colleagues in the cabinet, who acted as honorary pall-bearers. [illegible] were the tears that fell from manly eyes, while there was not a woman in the church who was not compelled to make constant use of her handkerchief.

The widow and her son and daugh[illegible]r have the heartfelt sympathy of everyone; but sympathy can do little to assuage such grief as theirs. To the public the death of Secretary Windom is a great national loss, how great only those know who have dealings with the finances of the country, but to the widow and children it is the personal loss of as kind and affectionate a husband and father as any wife and children were ever blessed with.

Already gossip is busy suggesting names for the successor of the late Secretary Windom, and it is generally agreed that the President has an unusually hard task before him in filling the vacancy. There are fortunately many strong, able and skillful financiers; men of the necessary broadness of mind and strength of purpose to move straight ahead on a line of policy, once adopted in spite of the thousand and one wildcat financial schemes which will be certain to spring up in the next House of Representatives, but, it will be difficult to get these men to consent to assume responsibilities the weight of which have undoubtedly killed three men—Secretaries [illegible]lger, Manning and Windom—[illegible]n the last three administra[illegible] is generally believed here that [illegible]esentative McKinley could re[illegible]ve the appointment if he would accept it, which, his close friends say, is extremely doubtful. However, Mr. McKinley is a very warm friend of the administration, and I have an idea that if the President concludes that he is the best man for the position he can persuade him to accept it. Among others prominently mentioned for the vacancy are Senators Sherman, Allison, Ingalls and Spooner and Representative Cannon, of Illinois. Chief among gentlemen in private life who are spoken of in this connection are ex-Governor Foster, of Ohio, and Stephen B. Elkins. It is not thought that the vacancy will be filled this week. In the meantime Assistant Secretary Nettleson is, under the law, acting as Secretary of the Treasury.

The Apportionment bill, which passed the Senate just as it came from the House, is now in the hands of the President and will undoubtedly become a law within the next ten days.

The committee investigating the alleged Congressional silver pools is holding meetings almost every day and taking lots of testimony, but what it is actually finding out is not taking up much space upon its books but much of the testimony is of such a nature as to keep the public in constant expectation of something highly sennsational.

Both Senate and House have made fair progress with the regular appropriation bills during the past few days, and if the Democrats do not purposely delay matters an extra session can easily be avoided, but there are some ugly rumors floating around of a combination among the Southern Democrats in the House for the purpose of forcing an extra session. They want the loaves and fishes.

Only Sixteen Miles.

Only sixteen miles of railroad between Bellefonte and prosperity. Will the moneyed men allow the opportunity to slip by unheeded? Sixteen miles of railroad built from Bellefonte to Beech Creek will open up a channel of industry and prosperity for Bellefonte and vicinity the extent of which cannot be correctly estimated. With the proposition open that has been made to the citizens of Bellefonte, will they not make a move themselves?

The Pennsylvania railroad company has a magnificent line. Its accommodations are unequalled; its courtesies not excelled. But its freight rates are enormous and death to an inland town like Bellefonte, that is entirely dependent on it for its supplies and exports. It is death to all industry and hard on all merchants. A competing line would open up a new channel of commerce. Coal and coke could be brought here as easily over that line as the Pennsylvania. Competition would either compel a reduction in rates over the Pennsylvania or else give all the business to the other line. It requires no great sighted business man to see the natural result. Now let some enterprising man take a hold on the venture and push it to a successful issue.

OLD Man Hamilton don't believe his son, Robert Ray, is alive and in hiding. Stranger things than that are happening every day. Robert would certainly be excusable for his action were he still living.

THE Pennsylvania railroad company is not satisfied with the sixteen per cent. net profit made last year, and now they have advanced freight rates to make it twenty this year.

JIM NOLL says he will get there, because Orvis and Bower are backing him up. It is likely that Jim judges by Hunter getting there in that way.

FINANCIAL.

AN ENCOURAGING OUTLOOK.

A Banker's Views upon the Financial Situation—Substantial Condition of the U. S. Treasury.

[Our Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 31, 1891.

We have to record another week of dullness and weakness in the Stock Exchange. The season's investment demand appears to have been satisfied; and the speculative movement that set in with the restoration of ease in money has exhausted itself by advancing prices to a level that leaves little room for further rise until some new element of stimulus is forthcoming. "Bear" attempts to force prices to a lower level do not afford encouraging results, and the fluctuations are consequently within such a narrow range of prices as to discourage operations. Under these circumstances the market is a narrow one, and transactions are largely confined to a few specialties which are effected for the time being by exceptional considerations.

Factors connected with politics and legislation hold the market in suspense and are producing an unsettled undertone. In the States as well as in Washington party politics are assuming phases of conflict and "crookedness" which suggest unwelcome tendencies in the working of our political institutions. Schemes to defeat the results of elections and abuse the power of majorities cast a shadow upon the political horizon; and the tendencies towards broad sectional differences upon fundamental issues suggest political possibilities which none like to consider, but which, none the less, all are unable to disregard. The sudden uprising of the Farmers' party also has a disturbing tendency. It throws practical politics into confusion and defies all possibility of forecasting the settlement of national questions upon which vast interests are dependent. The serious feature of this movement is that while its vast platform includes barely a single sensible or wholesome issue and is little else than an expression of the lowest form of popular ignorance, yet it is backed by a mass of voters possibly large enough to constitute it a determining power in the next Federal elections. The virtual miscarriage of the Federal Elections Bill and the cloture rule in the Senate seems to have been welcomed irrespective of party attachments, for the reason that it was calculated to revive sectional hostilities at a time when the bonds of amity between the North and South were being cemented by new material interests. The possibility of the passage of the new coinage bill still continues to contribute, among other causes, to the dulness of the market; But this factor would have much more effect were it supposed that there is much probability of the enactment of the measure. The unfortunate sudden decease of the Secretary of the treasury may be regarded as in some measure favorable to the silver faction. Mr. Windom was undoubtedly the chief intellectual force arrayed against further commitments to silver currency. And it may be reasonably feared that the loss of his firm counsels will leave the President more exposed to the astute management of the silver men. Unless a strong successor to the deceased Secretary is appointed, a new set of uncertainties must surround this question.

London is now becoming an important element concerning the future of this market. The action of the Bank of England, in reducing its rate of discount from 3½ to 3 per cent. is conclusive evidence of decided ease in the money market. What that ease means and what effect it may have upon speculation are open questions. Judging solely from the present condition of the London stock market, it might be inferred that the ease in money is in a measure caused by the absence of demand from the Exchange. Speculation is, at the moment, as dull in London as it is here; and, even on the very day that the Bank reduced its rate, London was a seller of securities in New York. It is reasonable to expect that the holders of the large mass of new securities issued in Great Britain within the past three years will avail themselves, as far as possible, of the ease in money for reviving their suffering specialties; but how far such a movement would extend to American investments remains to be seen. The uncertainty about the upshot of our silver legislation no doubt is the cause of much shyness in London towards those of our issues which might be deemed payable in silver. The metropolitan financial press is loud in its warnings as to the consequences of free coinage and predicts a sweeping return of our corporate securities in the event of the adoption of that measure. Still, there seems to be no reasonable room for doubt that, in the event of the pending silver schemes being defeated, London speculation would run very actively into Americans; the more so on account of the disastrous losses that have fallen upon British investors from the sort of foreign enterprises to which they have been committed during recent years. In this view the fate of silver legislation will have very much to do with the future course of speculation and prices in London and New York.

The local money market continues to exhibit extreme ease, and so far from offering any obstacle to speculation affords to it every facility. Money is flowing to this centre from the interior in liberal volume, the net receipts of the banks from that source during the week having amounted to $2,750,000. The transactions with the Sub-Treasury, however, show a net loss to the banks of $3,600,000; which is mainly attributable to the current specially large payments of duties at the Custom House, consequent upon the termination, on February 1st, of the period within which goods may be withdrawn from bond at the old rates of duty. HENRY CLEWS.

Wall Street, New York.

NINE big Indian chiefs are now in Washington waiting to get an audience with the "Great Father" relative to the Indian troubles near the Pine Ridge Agency. As there are just nine of them, why don't some enthusiast organize the gang into a base ball team and enter them in the national league the coming season? They would thus be certain of Two Strikes all the time.

IT cannot be denied that the office of county detective is a very useful one. Knowing this, it is easy to understand why the Democrats desire it abolished. The present incumbent is a Republican, and the Democrats are such hogs that they begrudge even the meagre salary of $240 a year to a man who is not one of them, even if he is an old soldier.

IF the present Board of County Commissioners are not a little careful they may "turn on the light" so that it will shine back two or three years or more and disclose some things that would not be creditable to their party.

IRL HICKS is almost as good a weather prophet as some of our local politicians are political fortune tellers.

A Partnership Concern.

Is the district attorney and the ring organ in partnership in trying to have Mr. Mullen removed from the office of county detective in order to make room for a Democrat? That is the only object. It is not because the office is an expensive one or a useless one, but because the present incumbent is a Republican and a soldier. Mr. Meyer found the need of a county detective when he first went into office, and it was at his request that there was one appointed. But Colonel Mullen was not the man he wanted. It was a Democrat he asked the Court to appoint, but the Court, with whom lay the selection, didn't think that way, and Mr. Mullen was appointed.

Of course, Mr. Meyer could not then, immediately after requesting an appointment, come out and say the office was a useless one, so he appeared satisfied for awhile. But of late he has found that he could get along without a county detective—especially a Republican one—if he was a Democrat it would be different—and now he wants the Court to discharge that officer, but the Court thinks different. For this the Court deserves credit. It is not wise or best, under all the circumstances, to heed every request of a strong partisan and whimsical official. They have tried to have the Commissioners refuse to pay for such service; but, fortunately, it is not discretionary with that body. The law takes the matter entirely out of their hands. If the Court appoints, the Court fixes the salary, the Clerk of the Court must certify to the same, and the Commissioners must pay, so there is no getting out of it in that way. The Court is the power behind the throne. If he sees the necessity of having a county detective, that is all that is necessary, a county detective there will be. And Judge Furst has shown too good judgment in the past to lead us to believe that he will regard the demands for Mr. Mullen's removal, under the circumstances, or give it the slightest consideration. It might be said in conclusion that this is but a demonstration of true Democratic principle—greed. They don't want a Republican in office, even if he does draw a salary of only about $240 per year.

The Old vs. the New.

The Centre Iron Company shut down; the Bellefonte Furnace Company shut down; only one furnace in the glass works running; 25 per cent. reduction in the nail works; in all fifteen hundred men thrown out of work and now idle in the middle of the winter, nothing to do and nothing to live on; food and clothing to buy, and nothing to buy it with, and no bright prospect for the future. Lots of money in Bellefonte, but those who have it keep it locked up or in their pockets; no effort put forth to start or build up industries—this is old Bellefonte as she now is.

The coming together of the business men of Bellefonte; the putting together of brains and capital; doing all possible to raise money and give encouragement for the completion of the Buffalo Run, Bellefonte and Bald Eagle railroad, which means a reduction of freight rates—a benefit to all business men—the starting up of present industrial establishments, and the erection of additional ones; the bringing to Bellefonte of hundreds of laborers, more business men; encouraging enterprise and rendering this a manufacturing centre second to none in the State; no idle, half-clothed or famished workmen, but all as busy as beavers—this is a picture of the new Bellefonte. Now which will you choose? Will you sit idly by and let fortune knock and pass on simply because you are too lazy or too miserly to take advantage of the opportunity? Do you want the town to die a natural death when it has such promise of a new life if prompt action and vigorous measures are adopted? It is to be hoped not. Meet the opportunity half way, and if the Pennsylvania Railroad Company refuses to haul wealth to the town unless given it all and paid for taking it, why go to work and build a road out and bring it in yourselves. This will be business on the first floor.

Quay's Vindication.

By reference to our telegraph columns it will be seen that at last Pennsylvania's Junior Senator, Matthew Stanley Quay, is going to clear himself of the multitudinous charges laid to his door by the Democratic press. We must say that in this Mr. Quay shows considerable sense, and also displays that shrewdness for which he has always been noted.

Such charges as has been made against Mr. Quay cannot remain unanswered without reflecting, to a certain extent, dishonor and discredit on the man; but there is no essential time wherein a man is compelled to defend himself. In this Mr. Quay has displayed his keen perceptive faculties, and also shown to the public and his party that the charges against him did not have the effect they were intended to.

And now, just at the opportune time, when Don Cameron is in such utter disgrace, the traitor to his party and cast-off Republican, Quay will step to the front and prove his innocence of what has been charged against him, he will at once raise in the estimation of his party and his fellowmen; and while Cameron will sink with the Force Bill mill stone around his neck, Quay will be a bigger man than ever in national affairs. We are glad to see that Mr. Quay contemplates making a denial. Glad for himself, the party he belongs to, and glad for the State. Pennsylvania is just now suffering too much ignomy, and if the load can be lightened in any way, shape or form, it is heartily welcome.

Of course as Pennsylvania Republicans, and more especially as Centre county Republicans, there is still a score for Mr. Quay to settle before we can take him back in our hearts with the same old feeling of 1888.

It lays at his door that a Democratic Governor now rules Pennsylvania instead of a Republican one; and we Republicans in Centre county still remember that if it had not been for him a Bellefonte man would now be filling that place. But aside from this latter we want to see Mr. Quay clear himself in the eyes of the nation; and if he has said he will do it, we believe he can do it to the public satisfaction.

WHAT a blessing it will be when Sheriff Ishler appoints his deputy. Just now a man can't visit the jail on business, or socially, but what second deputy Woodring wonders what business that —— —— has sneaking around here. Sheriff Ishler would confer a favor on the public by making his appointment in the near future.

IF this thing had only happened in time Cameron might have been compelled to go out West and fight the Indians. It might at least have knocked one vote from the opposition to the Force Bill.

GOVERNOR PATTISON means business in the prosecution of his several libel suits—judging from present appearances. Wonder how the Governor would feel if the "light was turned on?"

JIM NOLL says he knows who will be deputy sheriff. He says the sheriff told him so.

WHAT is the reason for the delay in the county statement?

ALONE.

Since she went home—
The evening shadows linger longer here,
The winter days fill so much of the year,
And even summer winds are chill and drear,
Since she went home.

Since she went home—
The robin's note has touched a minor strain,
The old glad songs breathe but a sad refrain,
And laughter sobs with hidden, bitter pain,
Since she went home.

Since she went home—
How still the empty rooms her presence blessed;
Untouched the pillow that her dear head pressed;
My lonely heart hath nowhere for its rest,
Since she went home.

Since she went home—
The long, long days have crept away like years,
The sunlight has been dimmed with doubt and fears,
And the dark nights have rained in lonely tears,
Since she went home.

TRIBUTE TO TRAIN ROBBERS.

Bill Nye Sounds Praises of the Younger Brothers.

After the Rock Island train robbery the Youngers and Jameses scattered to avoid detection. Each took a peach basket full of gold watches, so that he would know what time it was, and started off in four different directions. Curiously enough, four of them came together, viz., Cole, Jim, and John Younger and Moore.

The four outlaws had halted in a thick grove of trees to rest their horses, swap watches, and pray, when late in the afternoon two deputy sheriffs and a constable who were looking for the train robbers suddenly came upon them. In an instant Cole Younger took in the situation, and revolvers were drawn and levelled on the officers, says the narrator, while with terrible threats and oaths, indicating that if they did not hold their hands as high as possible they would, almost, at once, look like the zodiac man in the front of the almanac, they were halted.

"Where are you going?" asked Coleman Younger in a rich Union Depot voice.

"We are hunting for the Youngers, who robbed the train on the Rock Island Road," said the deputy, who had once impanelled a jury, but aside from that had never mixed much with carnage.

"You were!" exclaimed Coleman Younger. "Well, d——n you, pray!"

He was almost morbid on the subject of prayer, Coleman Younger. He did much harm, I think, by suggesting it at the most inopportune times, and showed great intolerance that way.

"What do you mean?" asked the trembling wretch.

"I mean that you have just 10 minutes by our large and choice assortment of watches to get ready for the other world, and I don't want to send any man to the other world unprepared."

He was always that way. He did not want to see a deputy sheriff die in a crude state. Ten minutes soon passed, and then the men were blindfolded. They were not far from the steep bluffs of the Missouri, some of which were 300 feet high. The three men, with their eyes bandaged, were taken to a cliff and swung over it so that they caught by their hands. Below was a perpendicular wall.

"Hold on as long as you can," said the eccentric robber, "and when you fall that will be the end of you."

With that the helpless men were left, and above the tumultuous beating of their own hearts they heard the clatter of retreating hoofs. You can dimly imagine the horrors of such a situation. The cold, glittering stars looked down upon them, but they saw them not. With bandaged eyes and sinking hearts they clung to the verge of life until their nerveless fingers one after another relaxed and with a deep moan they fell to the bottom, a distance of nearly four feet!—[New York World.

The Highest Navigable Lake in the World.

Education is not all, says a New York Sun correspondent, that Chautauquans brag about when they speak of their summer school. They are sure to tell you that the lake, on the banks of which they gather, is the highest navigable and navigated body of water on the globe, and that it is swept by winds pure and fresh as those of the more northerly Adirondacks. Chautauqua Lake is in the extreme western corner of New York State. It is 1,300 feet above sea level. It is only eight miles from Lake Erie, but 726 feet above it. An interesting geographical point you are sure to hear is that Lake Chautauqua, although so near Lake Erie, sends its waters southward through Conewango Creek, and eventually reaches tide water in the Gulf of Mexico through the Mississippi River.

As a fact, Lake Chautauqua is not particularly pretty as a lake. Its slopes are flat and unromantic and the country round has been largely stripped of trees. Nevertheless, it is getting every season more of a resort. There are half a dozen growing summering places around it. The black bass and muskalonge fishing is remarkable, and the country is full of vineyards, and netted with fine roads for driving. Jamestown is the nearest city of size. It is on the outlet, three miles below the lake, and two lines of steamers have numerous boats plying daily between these places, stopping at intermediate resorts.

"Sometimes," writes a correspondent of a trade paper, "I have had to make holes in steel that was too hard to cut or file easily. Then I make a mixture that will cut a hole. I mix one ounce of sulphate of copper, quarter of an ounce of alum, half a teaspoonful of powdered salt, a gill of vinegar, and 20 drops of nitric acid. This will make a hole."

MAGIC LANTERN WONDERS.

Some Curious Things Developed by a Discovery in Optics.

The magic lantern was invented long before photography gave it a practical value. Its discovery is credited to Athanasius Kircher, who died in 1680, though assertions have been made that Roger Bacon, four centuries earlier, was familiar with it. There is no doubt, however, that for a long time after its invention the magic lantern was regarded almost purely and simply as a toy, though persons calling themselves wizards employed the apparatus to summon ghosts and do other tricks for the deception of the ignorant.

Even to this day the magic lantern remains a most popular toy, and slides for the entertainment of children are manufactured by wholesale in many large cities, both here and abroad. Nearly all of them are painted on the glass, often in water colors, though transparent oil colors are best for the purpose. With such a medium all sorts of funny pictures are produced, which, thrown upon a white sheet, are calculated to give amusement to a youthful audience. It is easy enough to give the funny figures action by employing two slides; one, representing the background, remains stationary in the lantern, while the other is moved across. Skillfully managed the dramatis personæ in this sheet play may be made to act their parts most entertainingly.

However, photography has discovered a much more serious and important use for the magic lantern. By its aid the lecturer is able to show the most beautiful photographs, magnified to big dimensions, for the benefit of large audiences. In the same way maps are projected gigantically upon the screen which would require great labor to enlarge with accuracy.

Magic lantern slides for such purposes are made by photography in this way: A glass negative is obtained from an actual scene, a photograph, or other object, and from this negative a photograph is taken on glass. This latter photograph is the magic lantern slide—a "positive," like an ordinary photograph.

An interesting and familiar application of the magic lantern is made by revolving two glass dishes with concentric painted patterns in the lantern, working the two in opposite ways by a simple wheel contrivance, so that the patterns are mingled in a beautiful kaleidoscopic fashion.

But more curious and useful is the idea of placing living organisms within double slides of glass inclosing water, so that the organisms in question are exhibited upon the screen alive actually, for the study of the knowing and the ignorant. Even the growth of crystals, in process, is shown in a similar way, though not less extraordinary is the method practiced with the aid of the magic lantern of causing figures upon the white sheet, by a simple device, to grow to be giants that threaten to devour the spectators.—[Washington Star.

Frauds on Champagne Drinkers.

"The success of the champagne label pasters," said the proprietor of a great wine house in Beaver street, New York, "shows exactly what the condition of the champagne market is in this country. We have been in the business for 70 years and we have never yet sold a bottle of champagne. We never will. A good red or white wine of any of the standard liquors appeals to a large and cultured patronage. There are literally thousands of people in New York who can not be deceived in the age of wine and whose judgment is to be depended upon in all conditions. If they come to us and go into the wine question thoroughly we are sure of retaining their custom while we serve them with a staple brand. But the champagne drinkers of America are not worthy of notice. Not one man in a thousand understands what good champagne is, and he can not drink it steadily for three years without having his health burned to atoms. It is a peculiarity of the drink that any one brand of champagne palls on a man. After a time he changes about continually. Take Charles Delmonico, for instance. Two years ago he drank a dry champagne. A dry champagne now will set him on edge. He drinks only a sweet wine. This is a common instance of even casual champagne drinkers. The majority of people take it because it is as cold as ice, but after wine has been frozen the palate is almost unable to detect its flavor. Hence sweetened seltzer, charged cider, and Rhine wine mixed with brandy and soda water and the many other imitations of champagne are frozen and palmed off on the public with entire impunity.

A Novel Duel.

It isn't often that a healthy Maine deer gives up one horn, keeps the other, and fights a duel with a hunter, but it so happened recently. A gentleman named West, of Lynn, Mass., can tell you all about it. He was hunting in Kingsbury and came out upon Thorn Brook, where he paused to rest. All at once he beheld a noble looking deer stalk out upon the brow of the hill above him. He let drive one barrel and the deer fell. Hastily he scrambled up to examine his prize and found to his grief that he had shot one handsome horn off close to the animal's head. The deer was apparently dead. Half in reverie he fitted the horn back upon the deer's head in order to see how the animal would look when intact. To his amazement the deer sprang to his feet and, thoroughly maddened, pitched into his assailant with all the fury of an animal at bay. Mr. West, retaining the disconnected horn in his hand, commenced to belabor the animal and the battle waged furiously. In the heat of the melee both tumbled plunk into the brook, and this ended the conflict. The deer swam for one bank, while Mr. West clambered out upon the opposite, wet, scared, and mad clear through. His clothes were torn and he received several painful bruises, but hung to the horn. He carried the trophy back to Lynn with him and left a standing offer of $50 for the mate.—[Bangor News.

First Tramp—So you want me to go and ring the door bell while you sit here and rest? Second Tramp—Yes, Clarence; you press the button and I do the rest.

Blinks—I got stuck half way through my proposal to Miss Moneybags last night. Winks—Did she help you out? Blinks—No, her father helped me out. [Somerville Journal.

All Right.—"See hear, Cadley, did you call me a common ass?" "No, Snobbuton, I said you was an uncommon ass." "Aw, that's different. I cawn't stand having anybody call me a common ass."—[Epoch.

Horrid Thing.—"While I was in Paris," said the returned ballet girl, "I saw Bernhardt as Cleopatra. It was wonderful." "Was she anything like Cleopatra herself as you remember her?" asked the jealous chorus girl.—[Harper's Bazar.

Badly Gone.—Johnny (entertaining the young man before "Sis" entered the parlor)—I 'lowed you'd never come back here any more. Young Man—Why so, Johnny? Johnny—Sis said yesterday you was clean "gone."—[New York Herald.

CASSIUS M. CLAY'S HOAX.

How as a College Student He Diverted Travel to the Sea Shore.

A New York Times correspondent at New Haven gives some interesting reminiscences told by Captain Elizur Thompson, the venerable keeper of the lighthouse at the entrance of New Haven Harbor. One of the stories which the captain ever delights in telling to visitors, says the correspondent, and there are thousands who have heard it, is in regard to a hoax that Cassius M. Clay perpetrated on the people of New Haven when he was a student at Yale. Clay, like a majority of the students at that time, was fond of spending his leisure hours at Kemp and Hardy's restaurant, close to the lighthouse, where shore dinners and excellent liquors were dispensed. One day the proprietors of the restaurant complained that trade was dull, and in response the future statesman inquired why the place was not better advertised. The discussion of the matter resulted in Clay's determination to show what could be done by calling the attention of the public to the shore resort.

Accordingly, on the following day, the people of New Haven were astonished to see in the papers the account of a capture of an immense whale in the harbor—so large a whale, indeed, that 20 pairs of oxen were required to haul it up on the shore at the old lighthouse. The report was printed in good faith by the papers and had all the appearance of a truthful account. There was no lack of visitors to the lighthouse then. Telephones had not been invented, and there was no immediate way of learning that the story was a hoax. Crowds hastened to the shore to see the captured monster, and when there found nothing to do but to regale themselves at the restaurant. Those who returned early to the city were loth to tell how they had been fooled, and many of them related stories about the whale that went far beyond the invention of young Clay. It was several days before the real facts were established and the crowds ceased to congregate at the lighthouse. The restaurant men made a small fortune and Clay thereafter had the complete freedom of the place.

The Servant Question in Japan.

Japanese servants are excellent, if you choose them with discretion and treat them with the established consideration of the country. There is a universal social compact in Japan to make life pleasant by politeness. Everybody is more or less well bred and hates the man or woman who is yakamashu—noisy, uncivil, or exigent. People who lose their temper are always in a hurry," bang doors, swear, and "swagger," find themselves out of place in a land where the lowest coolie learns and practices a courtesy from the time when he wobbles about as a baby upon his mother's back. Therefore, to be treated well in Japan, as perhaps indeed elsewhere, you must treat everybody, including your domestics, well; and then you will enjoy the most pleasant and willing service. Your cook will doubtless cheat you a little; your jinrickishaman will now and then take too much sake, the musmu and the boy's wife will gossip all over the place about everything you do; and the gardener and the coachman will fight cocks in the yard when your back is turned; but if conscious of your own, you can forgive the little sins of others. You can hardly fail to become closely attached to the quiet, soft voiced, people, who, as soon as they have learned your ways, will take real pleasure in making life agreeable to you. A present, now and then, of a kimono to the maids, of toys and sweetmeats to the children; a day's holiday now and then granted to the theater or the wrestling match, are richly rewarded by such bright faces and unmistakable warmth of welcome on arriving, and of good speed on going, as repay you tenfold. Respectful as Japanese servants are—and they never speak except on their knees and faces—they like to be taken into the family conversation, and to sit sometimes in friendly abandon with the master and mistress, admiring dresses, pictures, or Western novelties, and listening sometimes to the samisen and koto, as children of the household.—[Sir Edwin Arnold, in Scribner.

Our Largest Bell.

The largest bell in America is that of Notre Dame Cathedral, Montreal, which hangs in the south tower. It is 6 feet high, 8 feet 7 inches in diameter, and weighs 24,780 pounds. It is ornamented with images of the Blessed Virgin and St. John the Baptist, together with emblems of agriculture, commerce, and industry. It was cast in London and bears this inscription in Latin: "I was cast in the year of the Christian era 1847, the two hundred and second since the foundation of Montreal, the first of Pius the Ninth's pontificate and the tenth of the reign of Victoria, Queen of England. I am the gift of the merchants, the farmers, and the mechanics of 'Ville Marie.'" In the opposite tower hangs a chime of ten bells, the smallest weighing 897 pounds, the largest 6,011, total 21,696 pounds.

The largest bell in the United States is the alarm bell on city hall, New York, which was cast by Blake, of Boston. It is 6 feet high, 8 feet in diameter, and weighs 23,000 pounds.—[New England Magazine.

To Ascertain the Mean Level of the Sea.

A new apparatus for measuring the mean level of the sea has lately been installed at Marseilles. It is based on the principle that when a liquid wave traverses a capillary tube or a porous partition, its amplitude diminishes, and it is retarded in its phases without the mean level of the wave changing.

It consists of a glass tube, the lower end of which communicates by a flexible pipe with a plunger which is lowered beneath the lowest water level. There are two cells in the plunger, the lower being filled with sand and open to the sea, the result being that the column of water in the tube rises and falls very little with the tides, and the mean sea level can be read from a graduated scale.

RELIGIOUS NOTES.

The present wealth of the religious orders of France is computed at $200,000,000.

Late statistics show that the Southern Methodist Church has a membership of 1,177,150.

The Free Church of Italy has decided upon the name of the Evangelical Church of Italy as its official title in the future.

A steamer bound for the west coast of Africa, from England, had on board 14 missionaries, 460 tons of gunpowder, 11 cases of gin, and 10,000 casks of rum.—[The Living Church.

The colored Baptists number 1,120,000; the colored Methodists about the same; other denominations, about 22,500. The Baptists claim 10,000 churches and 7,000 ordained ministers.

The net gain of the Lutheran Church in this country in 1889 in her communicant membership was 98,040. She has now 7,911 churches, 4,612 ministers, and 1,086,048 communicant members.

Of the 1,100,000 Lutheran communicants in the United States, about three-fourths are Germans; the others are Scandinavians, English, etc. In no fewer than 12 languages do Lutheran pastors preach the gospel to this country. The total number of ministers is 4,692; of churches, 7,948.

To convert the pulpit into a propaganda for various social doctrines, the truth of which is in dispute among good and thoughtful men, is to make matters worse and not better, and thus to fail to accomplish one of the prime objects of the church—the bringing of human beings together as members of the same family.—[Boston Watchman.

The Methodist Year Book for 1891, just issued, gives the total membership of the Methodist Episcopal Church as 2,283,154, an increase of 46,691 over last year. Its Sunday schools number 2,264,852 members, a gain over last year of 42,124. The several branches of Methodism in the United States include 4,980,200 communicants, with 31,765 ministers and 54,711 churches.

GOLDEN THOUGHTS.

In true progress, order is everything.

Not to correct our faults is to commit new ones.

Reading makes a full man; writing an exact man.—[Bacon.

It is not what we assert, but what we receive, that leads to knowledge.

No friend of a good cause was ever made by the persecution of its enemies.

When you have learned to live well, you will know the joy that there is in life.

The only school of education is experience; the only test of character is liberty.

The love of the perfect man is a universal love; a love whose object is all mankind.

To be right is to do nothing that fails to commend itself to a just mind and a gentle heart.

Strive to know the best that has been thought and written in the world.—[Matthew Arnold.

Success in this world depends as much upon the way work is taken up as upon the amount of effort put forth.

External worship without internal may be compared to the life of respiration without the life of the heart.

Cicero says: "There is but a small room, in which we can edge in and out, between memory and application."

The diligent boy with a fair quantity of genius reaches success long before the lazy boy with a superabundant amount of talent.

He who sows the ground with diligence acquires a greater stock of religious merit than he could gain by 10,000 prayers in idleness.—[Zoraaster.

There is no such thing as a universal "dignity of labor." No man is above doing any kind of work, and should aim at rendering the highest services. Our Lord took the servant's place, and, girded with a towel, washed his disciples' feet. But he was the Lord still. When one can bring a manhood and power capable of the very highest tasks into the performance of the lowest, he can dignify the lowest. The "dignity of labor" is in the man, not in the labor.—[The Watchman.

LITERARY AND DRAMATIC NOTES.

President Thwing, of the Western Reserve College, has declared himself earnestly opposed to any step that even looks like giving up Greek in the colleges.

William H. Hayne, of Augusta, Ga., a son of the late Paul Hamilton Hayne, read the principal poem at the recent unveiling in Macon of the bust of Sidney Lanier.

Mary Anderson has created a sensation by not only refusing to listen to a proposition to return to the stage, but by announcing her belief in the wickedness of theatrical representations of all kinds.

The title which Captain Casati, the companion of Emin Pasha in central Africa, has chosen for his book is "Ten Years at the Equator and My Return with Emin." It is expected that its publication will cause a sensation.

"The Faith of President Lincoln" is the title of an interesting chapter of personal reminiscences which L. E. Chittenden, register of the United States Treasury during Lincoln's administration, contributes to Harper's Magazine.

Miss Gertrude Bloede, a poet of high gifts, better known in literary circles as "Stuart Sterne," has resided in Brooklyn since 1861, when she came to this country from Germany with her father and mother, who were refugees of the revolution of 1848.

The picture of Editor Stead, of London, which he has printed in his Review, shows him as a man who looks as if he were more skilled in business than in literature. He is sitting at his desk, pen in hand, and his high forehead has the hair well brushed back. The eyes are the most striking feature, the mouth being hidden behind a mustache and beard.

QUIET, BUT RICH.

Mrs. Hetty Green's Sojourn in Humble Lodgings in Baltimore.

Once not very long ago a reduced gentlewoman who keeps a large boarding house in Baltimore received a letter from a lady signing herself Mrs. Hetty Green, asking that two rooms might be reserved for herself and her invalid son, who would be in Baltimore for a few days. The landlady reserved the rooms and Mrs. Green and the invalid boy arrived in due time.

Now, the landlady was not well up in railroad affairs and hadn't the remotest suspicion that her quiet lodger was the richest woman in the United States and the one of whom an editorial wag remarked, at the time of the appointment of the Interstate Commerce Commission, that if the President wanted to appoint a person who knew all about railroads, Mrs. Hetty Green was miles ahead of any other railroad sharp in the country. Nothing in Mrs. Green's style or manner of living was calculated to enlighten the landlady. She did not take the most expensive rooms in the house, and the only luxury she permitted herself was a daily drive in a livery stable carriage with her crippled boy.

But in a few days after her arrival a superb carriage dashed up to the door and Miss Mary Garrett sent up her card. Next came Mrs. Robert Garrett, and then the president of the Johns Hopkins University. The Baltimore and Ohio magnates were very anxious to be friendly with Mrs. Hetty Green. This rather opened the landlady's eyes, but when Mrs. Green appeared one evening dressed to go to a splendid dinner given her by the Garrett's the landlady scarcely recognized her quiet lodger, for she was magnificently gowned and wore the jewels that she reserves for very grand occasions.

Then the whole thing dawned upon the landlady. She found out that the quiet lodger was a person regarded with respect, not to say superstitious awe, by every railroad magnate in the country. But the quiet lodger continued as quiet as ever and looked sharply over her modest bill on leaving before paying it.—[Illustrated American.

HE COULDN'T PLACE HIM.

Dr. John Hall's Memory Is Put to a Strain It Failed to Stand.

Not long ago, as Dr. John Hall was leaving his house in Fifth avenue he saw a young man looking at the numbers. From his dress and address he concluded that he had recently come from the Emerald Isle, and was therefore a fellow countryman. As he seemed at a loss to find the house for which he was searching, Dr. Hall asked him if he could assist him with any information.

"I am looking for Dr. John Hall," said the stranger.

"I am he," modestly replied the Fifth avenue clergyman.

"Are you Dr. Hall?"

"I am."

"Did you come from Ireland?"

"I had the good fortune to be born there."

"Don't you know me, Dr. Hall?" said the new arrival, after a moment's pause.

"I regret to say that I can not place you at this moment, though I may have seen you before."

"Well, I think you have." Then he stopped for an instant, as if to deepen the impression that he had made and to prepare the minister for the startling assertion which he was about to make: "Why, you baptized me 25 years ago in the old country, and yet you have forgotten me entirely."

"It was not a time for levity," added Dr. Hall in relating the incident; "otherwise I might have reminded the young man that he should have remembered the face of one who had sustained such an important relation to him in his early life."—[New York Tribune.

A VERY CANDID APPLICANT.

Why a Life Insurance Policy Did Not Fall His Way.

A Detroit life insurance agent recently received a letter from a man in the interior of the State who said he was thinking of taking out a policy, and he asked that a blank be forwarded him. It was returned, and the following is a specimen of the man's honesty:

"What did your father die of?"

"Consumption."

"Your mother?"

"The same."

"Ever have heart trouble?"

"Yes, very bad."

"Lost any brothers or sisters by death, and if so what did they die of?"

"Lost five of them and all died of consumption and heart disease."

"Do you ever spit blood?"

"Heaps of times."

Ever had any serious accident?"

"Yes. Had nearly all my bones broken two or three times."

"Memory good?"

"No."

"Sleep well?"

"No."

"How's your appetite?"

"Very poor."

Several other important questions were answered after the same candid fashion and the agent will have to write him that there is no life insurance for so truthful a man.—[Detroit Free Press.

A Corner in Guns.

Clerk in Kansas Hardware Store—I see that the authorities have ordered a county seat election.

Proprietor—Is that so? When does it come off?

"Two weeks from to-day."

"Great Scott! So soon as that? Look here. Go right down and telegraph for a large order of guns and ammunition. Tell them to hustle them through double quick. County seat elections don't come every day, and we must stir our stumps to clear $1,000 on this one."—[Drake's Magazine.

ALL DEAD!

NOT EVEN ONE OUT OF 110 REMAINS ALIVE!

The Disaster Cannot be Accounted for Official Report of the Condition of the Mine!

The Horror Indescribable!

YOUNGWOOD, Pa., Jan. 28.—Not one live body has yet been recovered out of the 110 persons in the mine at the time of the accident. The horror is simply indescribable. Men, women and children, who had friends in the mines, are half crazed, and don't know what they do. Not near all the bodies have yet been recovered, and some of those that have been removed from the mine are so burnt and charred that identification is an utter impossibility. It had been hoped to have the mine cleared to-day, but it could not be done, but the owners are hopeful of doing so by this time to-morrow.

The disaster is the greatest that ever occurred in the Connellsville coke region. The cause of the explosion is unknown. The mine has been working for five years and there has never been even a suspicion of gas there.

Fire Boss Wm. Sneath, whose body was so horribly mangled, had early in the morning filed the following report:

MAMMOTH, Jan. 27, 1891.

To Thos. Lynch, General Supt:

This is to certify that we, the undersigned, have this day, January 27, 1891, examined the working places in Mammoth and found same to be in a fit condition for men and other workers employed herein.

"Wm. Snlith, fire boss.

"Thos. Patterson, Inspector of machinery.

"George Pfeffer, engineer."

The Mammoth mine was examined by Inspector Jenkins, of the Second district, on January 16, 1991. His report says: "General condition of mine, good, with 5,508 cubic feet of air inlet." His report is still at the office of the company It is considered entirely satisfactory.

General Superintendent Lynch, who spent all day and night in the mine where the horror occurred, says there is absolutely no way to account for the accident.

Captain Shoemaker, of the United Coke Company, who has been with Superintendent Lynch all the day and night, says the accident cannot be occounted for, but he believes a pocket of natural gas was penetrated by one of the miners.

The Pennsylvania Tours to California.

The wonderful popularity of the Pennsylvania tours to the Golden Gates is best illustrated by the fact that the full complement of passengers for the first, starting on February 7th, registered six weeks before the date of the tour.

The space in the first train being all taken engagements are now being made for the remainder of the series. The second tour fixed for March 3d, is an exceedingly desirable one, on account of the interesting route traversed, as well by reason of the fact that its members are in California by what many consider the most delightful season of the year. Eastern people who desire to see the Golden Coast in its most attractive garb could not choose a more desirable opportunity.

Names are being registered very rapidly for the second tour, and those who wish to make their going certain should apply at once for tickets.

The magnificently appointed train, presenting all the comforts of home or hotel, is not the least conspicuous features of these transcontinental trips.

For itineraries and tickets apply without delay to Geo, W. Boyd, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Philadelphia, or Tourist Agents Philadelphia Railroad Company, 233 South Fourth Street, Philadelphia, or 849 Broadway, New York.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain in its effects and does not blister. Read proof below:

BROOKLYN, Conn., May 5, '90.

DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.:

Sirs:—Last Summer I cured a Curb upon my horse with your celebrated Kendall's Spavin Cure and it was the best job I ever saw done. I have a dozen empty bottles, having used it with perfect success, curing every thing I tried it on. My neighbor had a horse with a very bad Spavin that made him lame. He asked me how to cure it. I recommended Kendall's Spavin Cure. He cured the Spavin in just three weeks.

Yours respectfully,
WOLCOTT WITTER.

DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.,

Dear Sirs:—I have used several bottles of your Kendall's Spavin Cure with perfect success, on a valuable and blooded mare that was quite lame with a Bone Spavin. The mare is now entirely free from lameness and shows no bunch on the joint.

Respectfully, F. H. HUTCHINS.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

MONROE, La., May 8, '90.

DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.,

Gents:—I think it my duty to render you my thanks for your far famed Kendall's Spavin Cure. I had a four year old filly which I prized very highly. She had a very severe swollen leg. I tried about eight different kinds of medicines which did no good. I purchased a bottle of your Kendall's Spavin Cure which cured her in four days.

I remain yours,
MARION DOWDEN.

LIFE SACRIFICED TO NEGLECT.

Pittsburg Dispatch.

Words fail to depict the horror of the catastrophe at the Mammoth mine. Over one hundred workmen, in the vigor of manhood, slain in an instant! Nearly a hundred destitute families deprived of their bread-winning heads, by an insiduous destroyer, in a moment of time. Such is the situation as it presents itself. It is an awful calamity. Not only to the persons immediately concerned, but to the whole community, in fact, to the State.

That this horrible thing has happened at a mine noted for its freedom from the dangerous firedamp does not palliate the evil done. From the information at hand it would appear that a workedout chamber must have been broken into and an accumulation of the explosive gas allowed to rush into the workings where the miners were. On account of the extraordinary freedom of these workings from gas, the miners were using the common instead of the safety lamps. The result was an instant explosion and untimely, awful death.

It may be useless to point the lesson of this frightful accident. The responsibility will be fixed by the proper authorities: The disaster will go into history and will be partly forgotten. Yet there is a lesson in it if it would only be taken to heart. It is the old lesson taught by nearly every mine explosion in the bituminous region. Namely that the safety lamp, prescribed by law, should always be used, and that more care should be taken in mapping and conducting the mines:

The coke region is honeycombed. Years of industry have tunneled the hills through and through. In the chambers of abandoned workings the deadly firedamp has accumulated in great quantity. Hence the utmost care and accuracy are necessary in the engineering plans. The Dunbar horror was due to failure in this regard, and from the information now at hand this new and greater calamity may be explained in the same way. That the miners were permitted to carry naked lamps can only be considered in the light of negligence. There may be a demand for more law, but until those already on the statute books are enforced new ones are of doubtful utility.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company' Tours to the Sunny South.

There was a time, not many years ago, when the first cold snap drove the seeker after more genial climate to Florida, and this meant several days of tedious journeying; but to-day nothing is thought of it whatever, for, through the medium of the series of winter tours, under the personally conducted system of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, Jacksonville and points even more Southern are reached in comparatively few hours, while en route the traveler is enjoying the comforts and delights of a home.

Already one of the tours has gone and four remain to be run from New York to Jacksonville, as follows: February 3rd and 17th, March 3rd and 17th. Tourists will travel in Pullman Palace Cars in charge of a Tourist Agent and Chaperon. A limit, as in the first tour, must necessarily be made in order to allow each passenger a double berth, and this limit has been made one hundred and fifty.

The round trip rate, including Pullman accommodation and meals en route in dining room attached to train, is $50 from New York, $48 from Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. Tickets will be sold from all principal stations on the Pennsylvania Railroad system to a connecting point with the special at proportionately low rates. For detailed information and itinerary, application should be made to ticket offices.

That Mine Disaster.

PITTSBURG, January 30.—A special from Mammoth mines says: It is now thought the 107 bodies recovered about comprise the list of the dead. The bodies buried in the Catholic cemetery at Scottdale last night were followed by another installment today. The rest of the bodies will be interred privately, with services at the grave, which was not the case yesterday.

A call for assistance has been issued by all Pitsburg labor organizations, and newspapers and business offices are receiving subscriptions.

It is thought by experts that the force of the explosion was augmented by the fine dry coal dust in the mine which ignited when the fire damp exploded.

When the bodies had been prepared for burial, Coroner J B Wakefield, of Janette, enpaneled a jury. The bodies were viewed and after brief consultation with the jury the Coroner continued the inquest until 10 a. m., Thursday, February 5. The inquest will be held in the court house at Greensburg.

COUNTY CORRESPONDENCE.

A Poetical Contribution From Boggs Township.

News From the "Lower End" and a Gushing Article on the Beauty of Bellefonte.

BOGGS TWP., February 1, 1891.

Mr. A L Barnhart, collector of inevitable tax—for this township is now to be seen daily, like the 'bailee' of old Briton, trudging along with his books under his arm. In consequence thereof, there is a perceptible falling off in day light travel along the highways.

It is thought by many wise people hereabouts that the strip of earth, known to its inhabitants as the "west side" Bald Eagle, corresponds to the Milky Way of the stars; for every morn, ere those heavenly lights have lost their glimmer, Mr. I M Harvey's milk wagon—on runners this winter—is seen to emerge from the mystic darkness thereabout whence it ascends into the rocky acclivities of Bellefonte.

West Side people can cross at Roland on the county bridge to Jno. Parkin's grocery. John is on the increase and does about all the business there is done here now.

Mr. Harry Curtin is doing his level best to get the Iron works at Curtin in operation again, and he surely has soap enough. We predict for him success in a new company.

Mr. C Curtin seems to have improved much in health of late. He is more than holding his own, May his shadow never grow less.

Our distinguished neighbor, P T Barnhart, Esq, though at a somewhat advanced stage in life is as young as ever in his spirits. An active gentleman still, he delights in good company and within the picturesque villa, he is proud to call home, dispenses a very generous hospitality, always ably assisted by his entertaining daughters and estimable wife.

Mr. George L Holter, Prof. Holter, if you please, spent last Sabbath with his sister, Mrs. James B Curtin, where his mother and sister Susan now reside, George aspires to become a Liebig or Dr. Draper;

Miss Nina Watkins' teaching this winter has made for her a high character as an instructress.

Neighbor Hast Lyman has lost none of his exhuberant spirits. He flourisheth like a green bay tree.

Miss Lena Lyman is still sojourning among friends in the Empire State.

Miss Curry's school is flourishing. She is considered a very efficient teacher, as is also Miss Zimmerman.

At the Cross Roads Mr, John Mayes still hammers away, shaping soles to the last, while across the way Will Barnhart goes asleep to the tune of his hammer like a child under a long sermon.

SOLON,

MILLHEIM, February 1, 1891,

Mrs. Anna Albright still lies in a very critical condition, occasioned by a stroke of paralysis received about six months ago.

One day last week there were three cats murdered in W S Musser's barn. From the heavy laden atmosphere in that neighborhood it is evident they were not yet fully domesticated.

M. A J Albright is visiting friends in Millheim.

Mr. Sylvester Arnold, while chopping fire wood, accidently cut himself. The wound is not very serious.

Sleighing in these parts is about worn out.

There will be a musical convention held in Coburn next week.

There will be a surfeit of public sales of farm stock in this community this spring.

Beautiful Bellefonte

A correspondent writes: One who has never viewed Bellefonte when it is lit up by the queen of night knows not how beautiful and romantic a spot it is. The scenery from the summit of either Halfmoon or Academy hills, as viewed by moonlight, is as grand as any ever attempted to be described by the pen of the poet or pencil of the artist. Allow the gaze to rest a moment on Spring Creek, and then follow its windings in and out among the hills and through the meadows, sparkling and flashing in the moonlight, like a belt of silver, stretching its glistening path far up in the beautiful vale to the source from which it springs and derives its name. Allowing the gaze to wonder over the silent town the beautiful sights seem almost endless. The tall church spires loom up in the distance like grim sentinels, while ever and anon the whole scene is brilliantly illuminated by the lights of the several furnaces. But why further attempt to describe; go and see for yourself, and all who have not yet seen it and you will view a scene as grand and glorious as any in the United States.

Christian Sentiment.

Several of the protracted meetings that were being held in this community have now ceased, not from lack of interest and enthusiasm, but because human nature was giving out under the unusual strain of so much prolonged work. But the good people of Bellefonte and surrounding vicinity have reason to feel happy over the great work done. We have no idea of the number of persons who have made professions of religion, but they must be up in the hundreds as there have been more than fifty at the forge church where Mr. Sarvis preaches, a large number at the Methodist and Presbyterian churches in this place, and a goodly number at the other churches. It is to be hoped that all will stand steadfast in the good cause and by their example and work lead others into the same path of goodness.

Gents Furnishers and Hatters.

Messrs. Frank Lukenbach and Will Garman have rented the room in the Bush House Block, for some time past occupied by Strehle's millenery, and on or about the 20th of this month will open a "gent's furnishers and hatters" store. The firm name will be Garman & Lukenbach. Mr. Will Garman will go to New York and Philadelphia next Monday to lay in a stock of supplies. We hope these two enterprising young men may meet with unprecedented success in their new undertaking. There is certainly room in Bellefonte for an establishment of this kind and if there are any two young men in town who can make it pay they are Messrs Garman & Lukenbach.

Two Items.

Lock Haven Express.

Last May, during the Knights Templars conclave, a brass nozzle was taken from Hand-in-Hand Hose Company's carriage. Yesterday Constable Keller went to Bellefonte and arrested a man named Alpheus Hepburn on a warrant charging him with taking the nozzle. At a hearing before Alderman Noble this afternoon Hepburn was held in $200 bail for court.

George S. Good has purchased two imported Norman Stallions for stock purposes, which will reach their destination, Coburn, Centre county, in a few days. Mr. Jacob Ricker will have charge of these horses and dispose of them at paying figures. He sold the black stallion, Rack, to parties at Scotia, Centre county, for $3,500.

Court Summary.

The following civil cases were disposed of this week.

In case of Jace Hockman vs. Geo. J. Meyer, verdict for defendant.

Jones and Landon vs. P. R. R. Co., verdict for defendants.

In the case of John Hipple vs. Dr. M. Stewart, plaintiff's moved to amend declaration, which was allowed by the Court but upon defendant pleading surprise the case was continued at costs of plaintiff.

In the case of Isaac E. Levy vs. Robert Cook, Jr., the jury returned a verdict of $380 38 for the plaintiff.

Well Known.

There is probably no business house in Western Penn'a so well known to the public in this and adjoining States as the one we are about to speak of. Well known for square and honest dealing, well known for keeping the largest and most complete stock in his line, well known for prompt shipping and safe delivery either by freight or express. We refer to the establishment of Max Klein, the wholesale liquor dealer of 82 Federal street, Allegheny, Pa. His arrangements with the different Mountain Distillers of Penn'a for their entire production, and his contract with foreign houses for direct importations, together with the experience of many years, makes him the leader in his line. His own "Silver Age Rye," sold now in every first-class place at $1.50 per quart, has no rival. His six year old Penn's Ryes at $1.00 each, or six quarts for $5.00 are the finest goods offered. Death of Mrs. Robert McCoy.

A dispatch from Tyrone this morning announced the death in that place at an early hour this morning of Mrs. McCoy, wife of Robert McCoy, Esq., of the Blair County Banking Company. The cause of Mrs. McCoy's death was consumption. This will be a very severe blow to Mr. McCoy as it has been but a week or so since he buried his only son, Alexander, a bright promising young man. No announcement of the funeral has yet been made.

WILL SHUT DOWN.

THE CENTRE FURNACE CO'S WORKS CLOSE TO-MORROW.

Owing to an Advance in Freight Tariff They are Campelled to Close Indefinitely — 650 Men Thrown Out of Employment.

From Friday's DAILY NEWS.

"The Centre Furnace Company's works are to be shut down tomorrow," was the general cry this morning, and to this might have been added, "God Save the poor." Inquiry of the owners by a NEWS reporter confirmed the rumor. The furnace will be banked tomorrow afternoon and all of the mines, quarries, etc., shut down tomorrow for an indefinite time This action was compulsory owing to the recent advance in freight tarifis made by the Pennsylvania Railroad, company and because an additional advance was to take effect on Monday next.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Furnace company was held on Wednesday in Philadelphia and it was then decided that the new tariff demanded was entirely too high—very exhorbitant—and that they would not pay such rates. That they would bank the furnace down and close the works indefinitely. The starting of the works now depends entirely on what concessions will be made by the Pennsylvania railroad company and how soon.

This action will throw fully 650 men out of employment, and just now when everything in and around Bellefonte is so dull and times so hard, it will undoubtedly cause considerable hardship, and suffering. As this is one of the best yea, the leading, industry of Centre county, it is to be hoped the shut down will be of short duration.

The Ladie's Home Journal.

Music-loving girls and those with vocal aspirations will find a rich treat in Ladie's Home Journal for February, in which Emma C. Thursby, Campanini, Madame Albani, Clara Louise Kellogg, Maud Powell and Albert Parsons have crisp and practical articles on voice training, piano playing and music and vocalics generally: There is many a help and hint in the words of these great artists, who make room further on in the number for Sister Rose Gertrudes first printed article on My Work Among the Lepers, in which the young heorine of the leper settlement of Molokai tells the true reasons why she renounced her work among the stricken lepers. Edward Bellamy follows his original nationalistic ideas in an article on Woman in 2000, which will certainly be entertaining to thousands of women, since the picture is a bright and sparkling one. Geo. W. Cable, the Creole novelist, begins a series of papers on How to Teach the Bible; Mrs. A. T. D. Whitney's new novel, A Golden Gossip, progresses delightfully; Mrs. P. T. Barnum, with portrait, is sketched by a skillful hand; Josiah Allen's wife and Rose Cook each has a story. Dr. Talmage is especially good in his department, as are also Mrs. Margaret Bottome in her King's Daughter's page, and Mrs. Mallon in her graceful fashion pages. The number is, in short, a splendid one from a helpful as well as an entertaining standpoint. There is, withal, no better magazine published for women. Published for ten cents per copy or one dollar a year, at 433-435 Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa.

That Euchre Party.

That progressive euchre party at the residence of Mr. Jacob Thomas last Thursday evening was given by the young gentlemen of the town to the Ladies Progressive Euchre Club as a fair exchange for past favors received from the fair ladies. The committee who had the affair in charge was composed of the following gentlemen: Messrs. J. L. Montgomery, Fred. Jackson, James Laurie, W. T. Achenback, H. C. Quigley, J. H. Green, George Jackson, T. A. Shoemaker and W. I. Swoope. Altogether there were just fifty persons present, among whom were the following; Mrs. Torbot and her brother, Mr. Bromett, Mr. and Mrs. Gray, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Stark and Mr. Hepburn, all of Jersey Shore; and Miss Watson, of Lock Haven. The evening passed very enjoyably and pleasant and the games were very interesting as well as merry ones. The following prizes were contested for and won respectively: Ladies first prize, a handsome five o'clock tea kettle, by Mrs. W. F. Reeder; visiting ladies prize, a long silver shoe buttoner, by Mrs. Brown, of Jersey Shore; gentlemen's prize, a silver shaving brush and box, by Col. D. S. Keller. Col. Spangler made the presentation speeches for all prizes.

Central Pennsylvania Conference.

This body will hold its twenty-third annual session in Sunbury, beginning March 11, 1891, to last one week. There are five such conferences in Pennsylvania. This one is bounded by Harrisburg on the East, Altoona on the West, Berwick on the North and Chambersburg on the South. It has a membership of 275 ministers, 51,400 lay members, church property valued at $2,478,675, its missionary contributions amounted to nearly $40,000 last year and other collections more than that amount. Its sessions will be presided over by the Rev. Bishop Fowler, D. D., L. L. D., of San Francisco, Cal., who, like any other Methodist Bishop, can preside over any conference of the same church in the world. In addition to the large ministerial membership of this conference, there will be a large attendance of visiting ministers and laymen, including some of the most distinguished preachers in the church organization.

There is Only One.

There is only one Swift's Specific (S. S. S.), and there is nothing like it. Do not be deceived by the numerous imitations, substitutes, frauds, etc., which are being pushed on the public by persons whose desire is to make money on the credulous. S. S. S. is a distinct medicine, is different from any other remedy. It must not be classed with the old, worn out potash, mercury, sarsaparilla, thous-and-doses-for-a-shilling articles, which are advertised, as it is not at all like them. S. S. S. cures by eliminating the poison from the blood by its action on the skin, and never fails to give relief and build up the health of the patient. Our treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases will give much valuable information and will be mailed free to applicants.

He Means Business.

Professor George W. Atherton, president of the Pennsylvania State College, near Bellefonte, Centre county, is in the city on a brief visit. Professor Atherton is greatly interested in the success of the institution over which he presides, and which in late years has been the means of large assistance to the sons of farmers. The State College asks for an appropriation of $297,000 from the present Legislature. This includes $100,000 for the erection of a building for the accommodation of the departments of civil, mechanical and mining engineering; $60,000 for a building for the preparatory department and $40,000 for the payment of mortgage indebtedness on the college property.—Philadelphia Sunday Times.

A Great Amateur Photographic Contest Decided.

The Amateur Photographic Contest carried on by Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper has ended. The awards of prizes is given this week, and copies of the prize winners' pictures are given. They are beautiful. The prizes range from a small amount of cash up to two hundred dollars, and a prize schedule is announced for still another competition, which is to follow immediately. The pictures in this week's Leslie's include a very interesting foreign page, a number of scenes of the Indian war, the picture of a noted Virginia belle, a page of views in the United States Senate during the discussion of the Lodge bill, and a large number of entertaining features. DOINGS IN COURT.

On the commencing of court on Wednesday afternoon the jury in the case of Weaver vs. Cooper rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff in the sum of $61.60.

Application for the discharge of Lew Sunday, made by W E Gray, was held over until today for the decision of the Court.

Mr. Samuel T Gray was appointed guardian for Miss Ruth L Decker, a minor child whose parents are dead.

Register John A Rupp offered his accounts for confirmation. So ordered.

The first case called was that of Conrad Imel vs. Beecher & Sober, an action in assumpsit to recover a balance claimed as due on a contract for the furnishing of timber, bark, etc. Before the case came to trial the defendants took exception to the plaintiff's bill of particulars and it then being necessary to go through another legal form the case was continued and that of J Willis Musser vs Adams Express Co., was taken up.

At this juncture the Court reconsidered his decision and granted a rule for the discharge of Lew Sunday from the Bellefonte jail, his term of one year's imprisonment having expired on Tuesday.

The issue in the case of Musser vs. Adams Express Company was for damages claimed by the plaintiff because a consignment of poultry shipped by him from Coburn to Philadelphia failed to reach its destination until three days after shipment, by which time it was in an unsalable condition and could not be disposed of. After considerable wrangling by attorneys Fortney and Reeder over "Assumsit," "legality," "jurisdiction" and "non jurisdiction;" the plaintiff's putting their offer in writing was objected to by defendant, and sustained by the court, the plaintiffs elected to suffer an involuntary nonsuit.

The case of John H Mullen vs. James Caldwell, an action brought to recover certain moneys alleged to be due defendant for medical services rendered James Caldwell and family. This being the last case for trial by jury this week all jurors, with the exception of those in the box, were discharged from further attendance upon court. They were accordingly paid off and most of them went home on the evening trains.

The case of Mullen vs. Caldwell was short as there were few witnesses. The jury rendered a verdict of about $39 in favor of plaintiff.

GRAND JURY REPORT.

Following is the full text of the Grand Jury's report:

The grand inquest of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, inquiring for the county of Centre in all matters relating thereto, do respectfully report:

That they have acted upon seven bills of indictment, of which six were found true bills, one ignored. And we beg leave further to report:

That we have visited and inspected the county buildings and found the court house and offices in good condition.

We find the court house privies in very bad condition and we also find no provisions made for females who have to attend sessions of court, We recommend that the closets on the left side upstairs be set aside for the use of women and labeled so that everyone may understand that they are solely for their use. We also recommend that a screen be erected in front of the windows downstairs and suggest that all the water closets be thoroughly cleaned and put in repair. The iron fence surrounding the court house yard should be entirely removed; it is of no use except as a place for loafers to hang on.

We have inspected the jail and found floor broken in cell No. 6, leakage in watch hall roof, kitchen drain in very bad condition and the kitchen needs new wainscotting and base boards; storage room very foul, public hall needs papering under bath room. We urge strongly a bath room in prison for the use of the prisoners—it is much needed. We recommend that the electric light pole which stands outside of east corner of jail yard be removed at once.

We suggest that some restriction be placed on the present wholesale visiting of prisoners and recommend that a day or two days a week be set apart by the Sheriff and advertised as days on which persons may visit the prisoners.

We respectfully tender our thanks to the Honorable Judges and District Attorney for the courtesy and assistance tendered us during our deliberations.

J. A. AIKEN, Foreman.

The Rights of Foot Passengers.

A correspondent writes to know what rights a foot passenger has on the public highway. Whether they are obliged to step out in deep snow to allow a team or a horse and sleigh to pass?

This is a question that has been discussed at some length on various occasions through the press and all opinions seem to concur in the one thing—that a person on foot has the same right that a man driving a team has, and that is to half of the beaten highway. When two teams come to pass on the road it is generally understood that each one gives up half of the road; just so has a foot passenger a right to the same treatment.

Aside from the legal right of the question at issue it might be added that all gentlemen recognize this as the right of everyone, but there are a few people in every community who think they own the public highway and that their right thereto should be conceded by all. But these are not gentlemen. They are more properly called—and they are well named—the road hog. The resemblance they bear to the rooting porker is indeed very marked. All they lack to make them a fair specimen is a few bristles. This specimen of humanity is not very numerous, to the credit of any community be it said, but there are a few good illustrations of the like lurking through old Centre.

As a general rule they belong to that class of humanity who have recently purchased, or else are just about able, financially, to own a horse, and who so pride in the fact that they can ride while some less fortunate ones are compelled to walk, that they think the earth is theirs and all that is therein were specially created to do their bidding and keep out of the way. It may not seem right to say so, but it certainly is a fact, that no community would lose anything, in fact, be better off, if all such individuals were suddenly transported to some other realm.

We have before us the names of several parties who reside in this county, who have imposed as above on men, women, and even small children, but we forbear, for the present, from publishing their names; but if such actions are still persisted in we shall consider it our duty, and believe we will be doing a public favor by publishing the name of every individual. A word to the wise should be sufficient.

Unionville Items.

The sleighing is getting quite poor, though there is about eight inches of snow on the ground yet except in some places much exposed to the sun's rays.

Parties of young folks go out nearly every night for a season of hilarity and to test their agility to the time of the string and the bow.

Rev. Cross is holding a series of meetings in the Union church to revive a spiritual ardor in the Baptist congregation, but we have heard of no converts yet.

Night spelling schools are being held at the neighboring school houses.

W. S. Cadwallader has been confined to the house for some time with cold and pleurisy, but has now recovered sufficiently to be on the street on pleasant days.

The six-months-old child of Mr. E. Erhard died recently of pneumonia.

The debating and literary society of this place is proving a success and is drawing large crowds of people every Friday evening, their regular meeting night. The latent talent which has been slumbering beneath the hat brims of our citizens is being developed and their oratorical powers set free.

The railroad company has put a new roof on the depot at this place and other improvements to the building are to follow.

The talking of a paper mill being erected in this place, we think, is nearly over, and more substantial work will soon begin. No more suitable place can be found along the line of the Bald Eagle Valley Railroad for a paper mill, or almost any other manufacturing enterprise, and our citizens are disposed to be very liberal toward a party who will develop business here.

LATE TELEGRAMS.

Recent Events Worthy of Note.

WINDOM'S SUCCESSOR.

M'KINLEY CAN HAVE THE PORTFOLIO IF HE WANTS IT.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Within the shadow of the great grief that has befallen the nation in the death of Secretary Windom, gossip is busy selecting his successor. Hon. Wm. McKinley's name is one of the most prominently mentioned, but the evident desire of the Ohio people to elect him Governor will probably deter him from considering any offer should it be made. In place of Mr. McKinley, the Ohio people will urge the appointment of ex-Gov. Foster. Senator John C. Spooner is also very much talked of, and the general verdict is that a more acceptable appointment could not be made. Treasurer Huston is also mentioned, and a prominent treasury official said this evening that were he to guess he would say that the choice would be either Spooner or Huston. First Assistant Secretary Nettleton is also talked of. The general impression is that Mr. McKinley can have the portfolio if he wants it.

SHE LOVED A LAD.

A SEPTUAGENARIAN'S LAVISH WASTE OF MONEY AND AFFECTION.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 31.—Love burned with a constant flame in the bosom of Mrs. Louisa English, 71 years old, and wealthy, of Bridgeport, but relatives interfered with her passion and appointed a conservator to see that she does not wed her youthful lover. The man she adores is Isaac Jewell, who is young and rather good looking. She meant to marry him, and lavished money and gifts on him for several months, but suddenly illness disabled her and her relations took the field against her suit, who think they have put an effective impediment between Louisa and Isaac, but it is reported that she made her will before she was taken ill and that Jewell is named therein as her heir. More litigation will probably follow.

A SOUTHERN DESPERADO.

A GEORGIA MAGISTRATE'S ENVIABLE RECORD.

MACON, Ga., Jan. 31.—The return of Jake Young, the desperado, to Tifton, a free man, has caused terror among the people there. Jake was born in that neighborhood and grew to manhood with a record for killing colored men, and then turned in upon the whites, of whom he is credited wtih killing five. Finding the presence of a magistrate troublesome he announced himself a candidate for the position, and by standing at the polls armed to the teeth, secured his election. His bailiff displeased him in some official act, and Jake shot him through the heart, sent for the coroner, and skipped for the woods. He was captured in May, 1889, since which time he has been in jail, but through the aid of relatives has been released on bail.

WALLACE ESTATE SOLD.

$50,880 REALIZED TO PAY OFF SOME SMALL CREDITORS.

CLEARFIELD, Pa, Jan. 31.—The real estate of Wm. A. Wallace was sold at Sheriff's sale to-day. There were 29 apportionments, the aggregate price being $50,880. There was no opposition in bidding except for the residence and Masonic building. The property was all bought in by T. L. Wallace, of Harrisburg. The residence sold for $9,000 and the Masonic building, of which he owns one-half, sold for $4,500. Sale was made in order to provide money for certain small assignments.

OUR editorial friend and Senator from this district seems to be possessed of the happy faculty of telling the truth. He says the present Senators are doing now what all the Senators in the past ever done—go to Harrisburg, draw their salaries, and then go home.

QUAY says he sees no more reason for an explanation and denial now than there was about six months ago. Probably not; the reason was surely big enough then.

THE NEW APPORTIONMENT.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The Congressional apportionment bill which passed the Senate to-day now goes to the President for his signature, as it passed the House on December 17 by a vote of 187 yeas to 82 nays, party lines being ignored in the division. The bill fixes the number of Representatives at 356. The present House embraces 332 members and no State suffers a loss of membership, while the twenty-four new members are distributed among eighteen different States.

Pennsylvania, under the new apportionment, will have 30 members, a gain of 2, while New York will remain stationary with 36. New Jersey is increased from 7 to 8. The only State receiving more than 2 new members is Nebraska, which is raised from 3 to 6. Illinois, Minnesota and Texas are each allotted 2 additional members, and Alabama, California, Colorado, Georgia, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, Oregon, Wisconsin and Washington 1 each. The new Electoral College will be made up of 444 members, requiring 223 votes to elect a President and Vice President.

SECRETARY WINDOM DEAD.

THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY MAKES A SPEECH AND THEN DROPS DEAD

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—William Windom secretary of the treasury f the United States, died at 10.05 o'clock, in the banquet hall at Delmonico's last night where he was the guest of the New York board of trade and transportation. His had been the first toast of the evening. He had finished his response and seated himself, when he swooned and died almost instantly Every effort to restore him was made, but in vain. He died of heart disease. The meeting at once dissolved.

William Windom was born at Belmont, Ohio, May 27, 1827. He studied law at Mount Vernon and was admitted to the bar in 1850. In 1870 he was appointed to the U. S. Senate in 1870 and afterwards elected, then re-elected. He was President Garfield's secretary of the treasury, but resigned on the accession of Arthur. He was appointed secretary of the treasury by President Harrison and has since served in that capacity. Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made.

THE GOVERNOR'S VETO.

HE REFUSES TO SANCTION THE ACTION OF THE LEGISLATURE.

HARRISBURG, February 2.—In the House to-day the resolution offered on Friday, requesting Senator Cameron to resign was postponed indefinitely by a vote of 128 yeas to 25 nays. The Governor returned the resolution requesting the Pennsylvania United States Senators to vote for the Election bill without his approval. In the veto message the Governor severely scores the Force bill, which he declares to be an unwise, unconstitutional and unjust measure.

Ex-State Treasurer Butler Dead.

PHILADELPHIA, February 2.—A special from West Chester, Pa., says that Hon, Samuel Butler, ex-state treasures of Pennsylvania, died at his home in that city this afternoon, after a lingering illness, aged 65 years. He served two terms in the lower house of the legislature and in 1879 was elected state treasurer on the republican ticket, serving two years.

Mrs. Jefferson Davis Ill.

NEW YORK, Jan 30.—Mrs. Jefferson Davis, who is living with her daughter at the New York Hotel, has been seriously ill. Heart trouble was the specific cause. Her daughter is assisting in finishing the life of her father, which Mrs. Davis is writing. Miss Davis said last night that her mother is rapidly recovering from her illness.

LEGISLATIVE TIE.

HELENA, Mont., Feb. 1.—Representative Witter, Speaker of the late Republican House, died yesterday of pneumonia. His wife died only two days ago and they will both be buried to-day. This death leaves the House a tie politically.

Appointments in the State Department.

HARRISBURG, Pa., January 30.—Secretary of the Commonwealth Harrity has appointed T. Ritter Vandyke, of Lewisburg, to be Assistant Corporation Clerk, and James North, of Patterson, Juniata county, to a clerkship in the same department.

THE Cameron family have had a representative in the U. S. Senate almost continuously since 1845, and never before did ever one disgrace either himself or party.

$298,000 FROM THE STATE.

CENTRE COUNTY STATE COLLEGE ASKS FOR A LARGE APPROPRIATION.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—The State College, Centre county, makes rather a heavy demand upon the State Treasury through the Appropriation Committee, but not so heavy as two years ago. The amounts it asks and the purposes to which its president and trustees desire to apply the money are these: For a building for departments of civil, mechanical and mining engineering, $100,000; building for the preparatory department, $60,000; payment of mortgage on college property, $40,000; pump house water supply and the electric light, $20,000; completing reconstruction of main college building, $15,000; for other improvements, $63,000, making a grand total of $298,000. Dr. Atherton, the President of the College is Chairman of the Pennsylvania Industrial Commission, which reported to the last Legislature a plan of industrial education in the Pennsylvania schools. The Commission has never disbanded, and Dr. Atherton says it would have been called together before this to decide on which it should propose to the present Legislature had it not been for the tragic death of Colonel Theodore Bean, of Norristown, one of its members.

"HOLDING UP" SALOONS.

PROFITABLE BUSINESS CONDUCTED BY KANSAS CITY BURGLARS.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 1.—At 3 o'clock yesterday morning three men were on duty at Mossberker, Bederman & Peck's saloon—the bar tender, night watchman and another. At that hour two men entered and called for drinks. They were immediately followed by two masked men. Three of the strangers looked after the employees while the fourth pried open the cash drawer and took $150. They then formed the three saloon men in line and stood them up close against the wall, while the leader of the robbers searched the pockets of the victims and secured some $40 in money, three watches, and some jewelry. The robbers then jumped over the fence and escaped. This is the fourth robbery of a similar nature in that vicinity within two weeks. One proprietor who offered resistance was killed.

KILLED HER HUSBAND.

MRS. SHEEDY AND HER ACCOMPLICE HELD FOR THE CRIME.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 1.—The preliminary examination of Mrs. Mary Sheedy, Monday McFarland, and Harry Walstrom, charged with the murder of John Sheedy, the aged husband of Mrs. Sheedy, resulted in the two former being held for murder in the first degree and the discharge of the latter. Mrs. Sheedy accuses the Rev. Father Walsh, one of the strongest witnesses against her, of making proposals to her, which she refused to entertain, and that his testimony is the result of spite. Bishop Bonacum has deposed Father Walsh from the priesthood as a consequence of Mrs. Sheedy's story. The police claim that they have proof that Mrs. Sheedy, who was in love with Walstrom, conspired with McFarland, a colored man, to murder her husband.

THERE'S NOT MUCH IN IT.

SO SAYS EX-SENATOR HILL SPEAKING OF THE SILVER POOL.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Ex-Senator Hill of Colorado, was in this city to-day en route to Washington to take up the duties of his new position as a member of the International Money Conference. He said in an interview: "I know nothing about the alleged silver pool and the work of the investigation outside of the information supplied by the press, but I don't think the inquiry will result in a startling disclosure. This man J. A. Owenby, who claims to know a great deal that would make his testimony valuable is, in my opinion, inclined to be a great talker. I don't take much stock in him. In Colorado everything is naturally centered upon the vital topic—silver.

VERY few people in Centre county know, perhaps, that this is the third largest county in the State. Lycoming is the largest, Bedford next, and Centre comes third.

THE GRANGERS!

Proposed Temple to be Erected at Washington, D. C.

A TEMPLE TO BE BUILT.

A "TEMPLE OF CERES" TO BE BUILT IN WASHINGTON, D. C.

Office of Master,
Centre Hall, Jan. 28, 1891.

To the Officers of State, County and Subordinate Granges:

It is proposed by the women of the Order of Patrons of Husbandry to erect a temple to the honor of the Order and that of agriculture, to be known as the "Temple of Ceres," in Washington, the Capital City of our Nation. It is requested that each Grange appoint a committee on Woman's work in the Grange, who are to collect the funds for the erection of this temple.

An appeal is hereby made to devoted Patrons, and all friends of our order to contribute "a free will offering," so that there can immediately be erected a grand temple, that will be an honor to our order and that of agriculture for all time to come, which will not only serve as a home for the Grange, where its business can be directed, and its records preserved, but the rentals of which will create sufficient revenues to defray the entire current expenses of the order, and maintain a National Home at the seat of Government that will make our order a power and influence in behalf of agriculture that cannot be resisted.

The plan for raising the funds is easy and practicable and is to be managed by the sisters of the order.

It is proposed that every member of the order is to be personally waited upon and be given an opportunity to contribute bricks for the Temple.

The price for brick will be $1. each. Books with twenty bricks each are to be printed. The name of each contributor is to be entered upon as many bricks as they wish to contribute to the Temple.

As soon as the bricks in a book are all taken it is to be forwarded with the money to Dr. John Trimble, 145 F street, Washingtou, D. C., who will deposit the money in the Fiscal agency of the National Grange, where it will draw interest.

The names of contributors will be enrolled on the Special Roll of Honor, to be preserved in the Temple for all time and published in such Grange papers as will contribute space therefor.

These contributions are to be free will offerings, and I feel sure that every patron wants his or her name on the "Roll of Honor."

The plan is that each State Grange, each county Grange, each Subordinate Grange and every individual Patron shall be invited to contribute bricks to the Temple.

Patrons are requested and permitted to receive contributions from those who are not patrons who wish to contribute to aid our sisters in erecting a monument to agriculture and perpetuate the names and heroic deeds and devotion to the farmer's wives and daughters of America.

It is urged that all our sisters enter at once upon this work. Sister Annie M. Holstein, Chairman State Grange Committee on Woman's Work, Bridgeport, Penna., will send each Grange books with instructions; or write Brother X. X. Charters, Fredericksburg, Va., for books and information.

This is a grand opportunity for the women of our order to do a great and useful work that will be an honor to their memories for all time to come, and will be pointed to with pride by every patriotic American citizen. Fraternally,

LEONARD RHONE,
Master Penn'a State Grange.

CAMERON says his vote against the Force Bill was just one slap at Harrison, and not because he is any less a Republican than ever. He also says that this is only one of a half dozen more that are to follow. He should remember that such old "fusees" sometimes rebound with redoubled force.

A little more jumping around and it will become difficult to determine the party affiliation of certain of our United States Senators.

"TAKING everything into consideration, and viewing the matter in every light, there is only one solution of the question now presenting itself to the Republicans of Pennsylvania. That is a prompt demand for the senior Senator's resignation. He has refused to respect the wishes of his constituents, has scorned to recognize the position of his State, has violated the pledges of his best friends, has defeated his party in the Senate, and has given aid to the Democracy at a time when his services were most needed by the party that has repeatedly honored him. That is a damnable course for him to pursue; Pennsylvania cannot nor will not tolerate such a policy on the part of one of her Senators, and the voice of an indignant people unanimously demands that Mr. Cameron quietly step down and out."

—Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin.

We copy the above article from the Williamsport paper because we consider it healthy and pure Republican sentiment. It is a stigma on the great State of Pennsylvania that such men as Cameron are sent to represent us in the United States Senate, the highest legislative body in the land. Men have been driven from their homes as traitors to their country and its cause who did less than Cameron, and why should he not be asked to resign, or else—if he should be bull-headed enough to refuse—a way be found to expel him from his high office. Dishonor and shame on the man who would thus turn traitor to party and its cause!

"ALL the works about Bellefonte are expected to be in operation in a short time.' —Centre Democrat.

Yes; half the glass works have closed down; the nail works are running on a decrease in pay; the Bellefonte Furnace Company have closed their works; the Centre Furnace is standing idle, and no one can tell when any of them will be put in operation. And all this under a county and State Democratic government and knowledge of a Democratic Congress coming in. Very encouraging, indeed; for starvation.

ANOTHER illustration of the superiority of the scissors over the pencil is given in Pattison's inaugural address, a good portion of which was clipped from the one that he delivered eight years ago, and the instrument read on the 20th instant was pronounced by leading Democrats, and some Republicans to be a very able document, notwithstanding the plaguarism indulged.

IF the ring organ editor wants to talk salary, fees, expenses, etc., as relating to county officers, he should study the fee bill and he would find that most all the county officials are paid their salary simply for "staying there," while they get fees and expenses for the work they do. This is the case the world over. It is the law, and there's no getting around it

—Many years practice have given C. A. Snow & Co, Solicitors of Patents at Washington, D. C. unsurpassed success in obtaining patents for all classes of invention. They make a specialty of rejected cases, and have secured allowance of many patents that had been previously rejected. Their advertisement in another column will be of interest to inventors, patentees, manufacturer, and all who have to do with patents

IF there is any way for the capitalists of Bellefonte so to do, they should hesitate no longer in the organization of a company for the purchase and putting in operation of the Centre Iron Company's works. Ere long the plant will be ruined mechanically, as well as in reputation, and endless suffering caused.

IT is better to err on the side of right than wrong, but it is a little hard on a man's pocket book. This is well illustrated in all fee offices where, if an official charges too little he loses just that much money, while if he charges too much he is liable to arest for overcharging. Lucky is the man that strikes the rightful medium.

VOTE for men this spring who will see that your taxes are reduced, and then rents will become lower in Bellefonte. High taxes cause high rents. See to it that your vote is cast for the right man.

THE well known firm of Barker Brothers & Co., of Philadelphia, which made an assignment in November, have re opened at the old stand.

RECIPROCITY WITH CANADA.

Sir John McDonald Explains His Previous Utterances.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 2.—A commotion has been created here by Secretary Blaine's denial of the ministerial announcement that negotiations were under way for reciprocity arrangements between Canada and the United States.

Sir John McDonald in an interview today said: "I have never stated that negotiations for partial reciprocity were opened. There was some friendly talk, not amounting to negotiations, which the Government was very glad to have, and which is submitted to the Imperial Government. I have stated, and I wish to reiterate, that McKinley's friends made every effort to prevent any concessions in favor of Canada. I stated that because I had it from the mouths of those who were in communication with McKinley on the matter. Personally I have nothing to do with McKinley."

How would you care to have a word of advice worth a great deal? Never tamper with your baby's health by using opiates to quiet its troubles, but use Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup instead

Almost every season has its drawback. At present our citizens seem to be troubled with an attack of catarrh, which however can be easily overcome by Old Saul's Catarrh Cure.

DIED.

MUSSER.—Vella Roetta, daughter of Samuel and Alice Musser, of Altoona, died at the home of her grandfather, Joel Johnson, in Bellefonte on Sunday evening, January 25th, 1891, aged 2 years, 5 months and 14 days.

"Death loves a shining mark," and for this purpose has entered the home of this unbroken circle for the first time, and has chosen, in His all-wise judgment, the one most fitted for the Heavenly Kingdom.

Little Vella, or "Mamma's darling" as she commonly called herself, was a bright and lovely child, the pride and pet of the household. She was too good for this wicked world; too much like an angel to live among men, hence God has called her home. Her accustomed place at the table will be vacant, and everywhere she will be missed. But weep not. Father, mother, friends, cease thy mourning; it is well with the child—her sufferings here are o'er. While by her death your house is made sorrowful, heaven is made brighter, and your loss is her gain. For, while on earth, Jesus said "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

Two little hands lay o'er her breast,
Two little feet laid down to rest,
Two little eyes in slumber closed,
How our hearts bleet none but God knows.

Hard it is from thee to part,
For it rends an aching heart;
But thy voice that once prattled in love,
Is now singing with angels above.

Will you meet us at God's gateway
When our last day's work is done?
Dearest Vella, will you meet us
At the setting of the sun?

The Borough Officers.

It is now less than three weeks until the voters of Bellefonte will again be called upon to select men to fill the various offices. There will be to elect a Burgess and assistant, tax collector councilman and school directors. Although we have, on a previous occasion, called attention to the fact we again desire to do so. The election of a governor or president is not of any more importance to the people of Bellefonte than the election of competent and proper persons as officers to fill the various positions in the government and management of our borough affairs.

Of all the offices there will be to fill, those of tax collector and councilman are the most important Under the present circumstances and in the present tied-up financial condition of the borough it is in the interest of all taxpayers that councilmen be elected who will properly legislate in the interest of the people and with the one purpose in view—the reduction of the borough debt. The population of the town is slowly increasing and additional public improvement will soon become a necessity: In order that all proper and legitimate expense may be met it is necessary that a rule of strict economy be observed by those having the management of the borough funds in charge. This, as a rule, has not been very rigidly observed in time past, but of necessity it will have to be in the future.

Next to councilman is the election of a competent man for tax collector. Of this there is not so much to say. The present incumbent has proven a very creditable as well as competent official and the people of Bellefonte can do no better than to re-elect Mr. Ray. But what will you do on the council question? Select men of ability and then elect them. And don't cut a man simply because he differs from you on some unimportant issue. Do this and we will have better borough government.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease 'Consumption," is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send (free of charge) a copy of the prescription used, which will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis and all throat and lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing and may prove a blessing, will please address REV. EDWARD A. WILTON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York.

Two Loveville Young Persons Wedded.

On Tuesday Mr. William Cole, aged 62, and Mrs. Mary Meiss, aged 52, a young couple of Loveville, were married in Tyrone. They returned to the home of the groom the same evening. The young men of that vicinity had arranged to give the couple an old time serenade, but the illness of Mr. Cole's daughter, Miss Laura, prevented any such display or fun.

Warn Your Boys.

It is evident, from all appearance, that the small fire at Garman's stable on Thursday was of incendiary origin. The coal oil used and other noticable things showed only too plainly the nature of fire. Now it is hard to tell just why it was desired to start that fire, but certain it is that some one did it either through a desire to create an excitement or else through a spirit of revenge. In either case the result might have been the same; thousands of dollars of property might have been destroyed and many lives endangered. And for this reason the punishment would be equal. Whoever the person is he seems determined to have a fire. Now we have no objections to this part of it, but his fire should be in a small stove in a room 6x8 with a 5 inch window well protected with iron bars. This is where he should have a chance to start a fire.

It was suggested the other day that these fires were started by boys and young men of respectable families. It seems hard to even think this can be true. But, lest it might, it would be well for all parents in Bellefonte to warn their boys, be they little or big, against doing anything of the kind or associating with other young men who would do such an act. It is a crime that stands next to murder. The incendiary does not know, when he starts a fire, how many lives he endangers or how many may loose their life through this act. It is reckless, foolhardy and murderous, and any person caught in the act ought to be imprisoned for life. So let all beware and not endanger their own liberty for the sake of excitement or revenge.

If You Had a Friend

About to visit some section of the country where malarial disease, either; in the form of chills and fever or billious remittent was particularly rife, what would be about the best advice you could give him? We will tell you—to carry along, or procure on arriving, that potent medicinal safeguard, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, known throughout malaria plagued regions, here and in other countries, as the surest means of disarming the miasmatic scourge, and robbing it of its fell destructive influence. Not only does it fortify the system by increasing its stamina, but overcomes irregularity of digestion, the liver and the bowels, and counteracts the unfavorable effects of over exertion, bodily and mental exposure in rough weather, or occupation too sedentary or laborious, loss of appetite and excessive nervousness. The functions of alimentation, bilious secretion and sleep have in it a most powerful and reliable auxiliary.

A Wonder Worker.

Mr. Frank Huffman, a young man of Burlington, Ohio, states that he had been under the care of two prominent physicians, and used their treatment until he was not able to get around. They pronounced his case to be consumption and incurable. He was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, and at that time was not able to walk across the street without resting. He found before he had used half a dollar bottle, that he was much better; he continued to use it and is to-day enjoying good health. If you have any Throat, Lung or Chest Trouble try it. We guarantee satisfaction. Trial bottle free at W. C. Keplinger & Co.'s drug store.

FORTIFY THE SYSTEM WITH Brown's Sarsaparilla

People having rheumatic, or consumptive tendencies, should heed the advice herein given. Their painful and dangerous diseases arise wholly from impure blood, causing a weakening of the system; are fed, and held in the system by impure blood, and cannot be driven out until the blood shall have been cleared. When this shall have been effected nature will do the rest, and the days and nights of torture will be unknown.

Alike are the young, middle aged and older people swept from the face of the earth by thousands each year by these diseases, and there has never been known so powerful a preventive to such devastations, as is found in that great remedial agent,

Senator Cameron's Conduct.

Senator J. Donald Cameron, by his vote to lay aside the closure rule, has called down upon his head the condemnation of many of his firmest supporters, and by his action virtually admits that he is no longer a Republican. His vote with the Democrats on Monday decided the fate of a measure, the passage of which the whole Republican party and particularly the Republicans of Pennsylvania, have been most emphatically demanding. The Senator could not have misunderstood the position of his party or the desires of his constituents. His vote would have defeated the Democracy in the subtle attempt to defeat the will of the majority, but with a coolness that was startlingly bold, indicating a premeditated purpose, this man, whom the Republican Legislature of Pennsylvania re-elected in the face of protest, admitted that the renewed confidence of his State had miscarried—in plain words that he is a Democrat.

Under the circumstances it would seem that there is reason in the clamor for Cameron's resignation. He has misrepresented his State, and it would be a graceful act on his part to retire.

The Gazette and Bulletin endorsed Senator Cameron's re-election, although a decided stand was not taken in his favor. But now that he has placed himself so plainly and unmistakably on record as against every Republican measure of importance, we admit that it is time for the Republicans of Pennsylvania to rise up and condemn such an unmanly and ungrateful course.

Senator Cameron voted for free coinage of silver. That was a Democratic measure, so infamous and so unjust as to endanger the Government's credit, and its passage by the Senate appalled the monetary centres. Senator Cameron linked himself with the minority, and joined the few Republican Senators who favored that scheme from mercenary motives. On Monday, the day that he voted with the Democrats to shut off the closure debate, he admitted before the Committee of Inquiry that he had been speculating in silver. It is reasonable to infer that Mr. Cameron expected to profit by the passage of that bill, although he denies complicity with the silver pool. And his position on that question, directly opposite to the wishes of his party, is very suspicious, to say the least.

Previous to his re-election, the statement was made that Senator Cameron was in full accord with the Republican party on the Election bill. This declaration of fealty to party was made in defense of the Senator, and it had much influence in counteracting a growing public sentiment against his return to the Senate. At that time those opposed to Mr. Cameron intimated that he was not to be relied on, and that the pledges of his friends were made merely for effect.

Senator Cameron's vote on the closure rule unmasks his position and places him in his true light before the people. His position can no longer be doubted. His party can no longer rely upon him. He has been re-elected, and he now defies the will of his party.

THE Republican makes piteous appeals for nobody. It only desires to see justice, and justice is all it asks for. It believes in protection—protection to citizens and their rights in this county; and to afford that protection claims that the office of County Detective is as much, if not more, of a necessity than many other offices in the county. And in addition we believe it is cheaper than it would be to abolish the office and employ other assistance when needed. As for the present incumbent, we only mention him because he has been an able officer, and not in a pleading way, by any means. If a better man can be found, put him in, but don't abolish the office.

THE present Board of County Commissioners have started in to be a model Board. Three years from now the tax payers of Centre county will let them know if they desire them as a "model" to sit another three years for a picture.

Farming the Basis of Wealth.

From the Lancaster Examiner.]

There is abundance of room yet for farmers. It is not so much the low prices of produce as the cost of it which is the real cause for complaint. Agriculture is the very basis for all material wealth. The time is within sight when our rapidly increasing population will call for every bushel of wheat and corn, every pound of butter and cheese, every pound of beef and mutton, all the fruit and vegetables that can be produced; and as England has, with its dense manufacturing population, largely outgrown the measure of its agriculture, so it will be here. Farming will always be profitable when it is carried on with intelligence and skill. Farmers need never fear that when their boys divide between them the place heretofore occupied by their father—two, three or four in place of one—that the vocation of the farm will become too crowded. At any rate there will always be overflow from the field and the farm into other industries by which a general level will be maintained. This is a natural law which governs humanity and its industries, and the training and education by which the young people are fitted for business on the farm and are reared to habits of industry, economy and forethought, are the very best means required to fit the young men and women, too, for the professions, for mechanics, for trade and commerce, and for honest, laudable and exemplary political offices Farmers should consider this well. They should look forward to the outgrowth of it and to the proper fitting of their children for a busy, honorable and prosperous life. The farm may be made the best preparatory school for all other occupations. The training insures habits of industry, thoughtfulness, patience, perseverance, fortitude under disappointment and energy to oppose successfully all obstacles. That is, real farming, not mere scratching of the ground and contentment with the bare necessaries of life. And with the home training farmers should give close attention to their schools. The rural schools should be as good and effective for the education of the young people as those of the cities. No farmer who spends money for the fertilization of his fields should begrudge a liberal support to the schools, which are the fields for the cultivation of the young minds. He must see in this the great profit to be obtained. He should expend a reasonable sum in newspapers of the best kind, of books and periodicals which afford a great variety of the most useful information. But in the choice of these he must be circumspect and judicious, rejecting the trifling, sensational, frothy literature, which is full of harm and ruinous to the young minds, and which tends to destroy those useful moral qualities which go to make up useful, steady and patiently industrious men and women. If the farmer gives much thought and study to the training of a vine or fruit tree, how much more should he apply his best thoughts to the training of his children to fit them for the intricate business of life and to make them fruitful of all good works?

AUNT RACHAL
MEDICATED HERB PAD
USED BY THE HOLLAND DUTCH FOR HALF A CENTURY.
The Most Robust People in the World

Cures by Penetration and Inhalation
A Thorough Disenfectant

THE DISCOVERY

Of the particular Herbs for curing and preventing disease by disinfecting and changing the nature of impure air as breathed in the lungs was discovered over 50 years ago by AUNT RACHAEL SPEER, an old noted nurse now over 86 years old, who, from her youth up has been the most successful nurse known.

She always has and still does go through rain or shine to freely answer calls from the sick.

It was at labor of love without pay and without price.

AUNT RACHAEL has gathered the Herbs and made and applied thousands of these pads to rich and poor, without charge, and in every instance the effects were wonderful.

The Pad is made by quilting certain herb and medicine between flaps of muslin, and when worn they are made wet or damp, at frequent intervals, with a tincture which accompanies the Pad.

This tincture combining with the Herbs in the Pad is absorbed through the pores of the skin and the aroma that arises before the nostrils purifies the air you breathe. It is a prevention and cure.

It is a wonderful discovery. Address:

VINDICATION!

MATTHEW S. QUAY WILL TALK.

He Has Prepared a Full Denial of All Charges Made Against Him. The Boom to be Fired in the Senate

NEW YORK, January 29.—The Herald's special from Washington says: At last Matthew Stanley Quay is going to speak.

For many months he has been under charges from many sources of corrupt and criminal acts in office, and he has steadily refused to say a syllable as to whether the accusations are true or false. The long silence he has kept, which has been accepted by many persons as conclusive evidence of his guilt he is about to break.

He has prepared to every charge that has been publicly made against him a specific and in some cases an elaborate reply, the whole of which is pronounced by a friend of Mr. Quay's who has seen it to be one of the most remarkable documents in recent political history! It is now compiled, copied, and ready to be published whenever Mr. Quay sees fit.

The medium through which Mr. Quay will give his version to the world is the United States Senate, and within a day or two he will rise to a question of personal privilege and startle the Senators with a full statement of the facts as he views them as well as the only attempt at a speech he has made since he has been in Congress:

CHARGES NOT FORGOTTEN.

Although Mr Quay has never referred to the charges made against him it is said by his personal and political friends that he has carefully noted and preserved all these charges as they appeared, and always intended, at the proper time and place, to reply to them:

He has declined to discuss them through the newspapers, because he couldn't reach all the public through any one or a dozen papers, and for other seasons which are good and sufficient.

It was for a time his intention to resign from the Senate, seek a re-election from the present Pennsylvania Legislature as a vindication, and when he got it to appear personally at Harrisburg and make his defense there. The premature publication of his intention robbed it of a good deal of its dramatic effect and there were other reasons, including, probably, the fact that it was not dead sure that he could get re-elected, which drove him from the idea.

So he decided to give his whole case to the Senate, and to that end he has been working it up for several days with unusual thoroughness.

LONG SUFFERING UNDER CHARGES.

The speech, as it now stands, begins with the declaration that for a long time he has been the target of accusations affecting his standing and personal integrity, and has suffered them in silence, but he thinks it is due to his fellow members of the Senate that the truth about these allegations should be known.

He declares that the violence of party feeling and his own prominence in political affairs have made him the victim of continual abuse, but he merely asserts that he is innocent of any wrong doing in his political career. He then recounts, first, the accusation that while he was State Treasurer of Pennsylvania he abstracted for his own use large sums from the public funds and that the shortage was made good by his political associates in order to prevent a public scandal.

THE TREASURY SHORTAGE.

Mr. Quay will say that so far as the charge relates to him it is entirely false. There was, he admits, a shortage in the Treasury of which he was in charge, but he was not the cause of it.

The funds were abstracted by the cashier, a gentleman, by the way, who is now dead.

"Far be it from me," says Mr. Quay "to inpugn the motives of the dead." The motives were all right undoubtedly. but the funds were taken and had to be replaced, although he had nothing to do with it in any way or manner.

He took no money himself, and none was taken for his use nor returned on his account by his friends. The other charges are then taken up one after another, and each is followed by an emphatic denial. Mr. Quay declares that he was never engaged in the questionable operations alleged of him while a State official of Pennsylvania, that he was not guilty of the various acts of bribery or corruption which have been urged against him and that he is not by any means the all but convicted felon the newspapers have made him out to be.

Delamater Again Arrested.

MEADVILLE, January 30.—At the instigation of F W Witter, a depositor to the amount of $610, the members of the assigned banking company of Delamater & Co. and Victor M Delamater, cashier, was again arrested this morning there, charged with embezzlement, brought under the provisions of the act of May 9, 1889. The defendants waived a hearing and gave bonds in the sum of $1,000.

INDIANS IN WASHINGTON.

A Delegation From Pine Ridge to Wait on Secretary Noble.

WASHINGTON, January 30.—Eighteen warriors fresh from the Pine Ridge Agency arrived in the city this morning at 7 o'clock via Chicago. They were accompanied by their interpreters. Special Agent Lewis, under the instructions of the Indian Bureau, was in charge of the party and allowed no one to hold communication with them. Secretary Noble is to be their only confident. There are fourteen of the Indians who are representative men. These Indians belong to the Sioux tribe and are fine specimens of humanity. Half of the delegation are dressed in store clothes. The other half are clothed in a composit costume—half store and half Indian.

They will not call on the Secretary of the Interior till some time next week, and meanwhile the Indian Bureau will have them costumed in ordinary apparel. These Indians have not been personally engaged in the recent hostilities. They came on the same train with Gen Miles and the Indians to Fort Sheridan, and the two parties separated at Chicago.

The Indians now in the city are Young Man Afraid of His Horses, Spotted Elk, American Horse, Two Strike, Little Wound, Hump, Big Road, Spotted Horse, He Dog, Fire Lightning, Fast Lightning, Fast Thunder, High Hawk and High Pipe. Major Swords, the chief of Indian police at Pine Ridge, is with the party. The major is an Indian and a very capable official. Rev. Chas B. Cook, who also accompanies the delegation, is also a full blooded Indian.

At this season of the year when malaria lurks in the air, and bad colds not an unfrequent visitor, we long for a quick and effective remedy. There is scarcely a home without a sufferer from some of the many ills the flesh is heir to. A stimulant is after the intermediator. It is quick and effective. It brings relief and saves doctors bills. We can recommend Mr. Max Klein for anything in the liquor line. His silver age Rye at $1.50 per quart is the best whiskey in the market. He will sell a y Pennsylvania Rye Whiskey, six years old, at 1.00 for each quart, or s x for $5.00. Send for his price list and catalogue and mention this paper. Address MAX KLEIN,

Killing Deer Out of Season.

It is stated on reliable authority that Centre county parties have been killing deer on Beech Creek, this county near the county line. A deer, minus the hind quarters, was found a few days ago near where these violaters of the law had been camping and the heads of several other deer were discovered in the woods. Who are the guilty parties? If discovered they should be prosecuted. —L. H. Express.

IRL B. HICKS' FORECAST.

What He Has to Say About the Weather For the Coming Mo

Rev. Irl B. Hicks, the St. Louis weather prophet has this to say for February's weather:

The general storm movements organizing during the last two days of January will grow in violence as they sweep eastward, reaching their worst between the 1st and 3rd inclusive. On the last day of January, Mercury passes its distributing point, combining on the same day with a regular Vulcan period, and on February 1 with a disturbing moon phase. A warm wave, developing rainstorms and attended by electrical phenomena, is sure to result. On the south side of storm areas, dangerous storms need not surprise, while to the northward destructive sleet and snow blizzards are apt to result. Prepare for the period to end in one of the most general and bitter cold waves of the season. The wires will suffer wofully during the perturbations of this period. Mark our warning for heavy sleet. The cold will generally relax, and much local storminess will follow on and next to the reactionary 6th and 7th.

The 12th is the central day of the next regular storm period. The period will begin to feel severely the disturbing power of the growing Venus perturbation. Very warm temperature—enormous rainstorms with thunder and lightning in many places, turning to snow, and followed at the close by extreme cold, will be the natural order for this period. We name the 12, 13 and 14, as the days of greatest activity and danger. The extreme East may not feel the full force before the Phenomenal fluctuations of temperature—warm here and zero yonder—the astonishingly rapid changes, will characterize all the disturbances during the remainder of the month. Low lands and narrow, gorged water channels are apt to be suddenly and dangerously flooded. Regions to the northward will have heavy snows and blizzards, with extreme and sudden drops of the mercury that will call for prudent vigilance. On the next to the 18th, higher temperature and reactionary storms will be due.

Venus is at the centre of her disturbing period on the 25th; about the same day a Vulcan disturbance will reach the central parts of this continent, with moon at its full on the 23rd, Vulcan's central day. At this time the earth's vernal equinox, also will begin to send its electric, equatorial currents northward to battle with Boreas. Therefore, the period running from about the 22nd to 25th, inclusive, is one that will bear watching. All we have said of characteristic storms and temperatures for February will apply specially to this period. Keep your eye on it.

Electric Bitters.

This remedy is becoming so well known and so popular as to need no special mention. All who have used Electric Bitters sing the same song of praise. A purer medicine does not exist and it is guaranteed to do all that is claimed. Electric Bitters will cure all diseases of the Liver and Kidneys, will remove Pimples, Boils, Salt Rheum and other affections caused by impure blood. Will drive Malaria from the system and prevent as well as cure all Malarial fevers For cure of Headache, Consumption and Indigestion try Electric Bitters. Entire satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. Price 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle at W. C. Keplinger & Co.'s drug store.

Reduction in Wages.

On Wednesday afternoon a conference was held between the managers and a committee of the workmen at the nail works to consider the adoption of a new scale of wages the managers had proposed to the workmen. After a short conference the committee on behalf of the workmen agreed to accept the new scale, which, when adopted, will make a reduction of about 25 per cent, from the present scale. A reduction in wages is always a thing to be deplored, but if only all the departments of the nail works will now be put in operation that will be one redeeming feature.

Consumption Cured With Grapes.

This fell destroyer has brought a blight to many a young life and sadness to many a home circle. There is one remedial agent that will assist nature in throwing off this terrible disease, viz: Speer's port wine. It has been used by hundreds with wonderful success; has checked the progress of disease and brought thousands back to health. Its property is to make new blood. For sale by druggists.

WHAT IS SAPOLIO?
It is a solid handsome cake of scouring soap which has no equal for all cleaning purposes except in the laundry. To use it is to value it...

What will SAPOLIO do? Why it will clean paint, make oil-cloths bright, and give the floors, tables and shelves a new appearance. It will take the grease off the dishes and off the pots and pans. You can scour the knives and forks with it, and make the tin things shine brightly. The wash-basin, the bath-tub, even the greasy kitchen sink will be as clean as a new pin if you use SAPOLIO. One cake will prove all we say. Be a clever housekeeper and try it.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS. THERE IS BUT ONE SAPOLIO.

Where the Arc Light is Made.

The new dynamo used in the generation of electricity for the new Arc light is a beauty and, in machinist's vernacular, "a regular daisy." It is not near so big as the A machine used on the incandescent, although it is almost twice as powerful. While the latter is only a 450 volt. machine the former is an 800 volt. This will generate electricity enough to feed 20 arc lights—there are now 18 in use in the borough. If the arc lights were almost twice as numerous, or say even 30 of them, and the company then get another 20 light dynamo and a new engine especially for those two machines then there would be better light all around. As it is there are three dynamos run by the one engine, which is entirely too much, as it requires that machine to be run at the rate of 325 revolutions a minute in order to keep up sufficient power.

Consumption Surely Cured.

The Grand Jury Report.

Without knowing, we venture the assertion that the recent grand jury was a Democratic body, and we are led to the belief just from the manner of the report made. The document was rather above the usual length, contained more words than the average, but that is all it did contain. The recommendations regarding the public outbuildings have become so stereotyped that a report without it would, of necessity, be incomplete. It is given as regularly as the report itself; and yet no good comes of it.

Another reason we have for believing that official body Democratic is because they were very far-seeing or else possessed of a second-sight. In their report was found a clause stating that "we have examined and find the court house and offices in good condition," while the several officials in the various offices positively declare that the grand jury, as a body, never visited any of the offices. One thing is very certain; had they visited the Recorder's office on the day the report was made, they would have found the floor of the vault covered with water.

And still another place. They overreached the mark when they recommended that the wholesale visiting of prisoners be prohibited. Not but what the recommendation is a very good one, but then it is beyond the authority or jurisdiction of a grand jury. The regulation of the jail belongs to the Sheriff, who is under the direction of the court.

But then there is never a paper but what has some redeeming features about it, and so had this report. The recommendation for the removal of the electric light pole from the corner of the jail yard; the placing of a bath tub in the prison; the removal of the iron fence from around the jail yard were all good, wholesome and worthy recommendations, while the name of Mr. J. A. Aiken, as foreman, attached to the report, gave it a dignity that it otherwise would not have had.

But now will the county authorities act even on what recommendations were made? Let us hope so.

They all Died Sober.

[From the Detroit Tribune.]

Apropos of Gen. Cutcheon's remarks on social drinking in Washington, the General was led to tell the story of an army experience of his with whiskey. It was in the trenches before Petersburg. As Colonel of the regiment he had prohibited the sale of liquor except on a doctor's order, and in that case prohibition prohibited.

The Division Commander, however, issued orders that a ration of whiskey be served to each man in the trenches, and the liquor for the 20th Michigan was brought in two great iron kettles. As the men clustered around with their tin cups some one cried out:

"Boys, if I'm going to be shot to day I want to die sober!"

The cry was taken up by the regiment. The kettles were seized by willing hands and the whiskey poured upon the ground. Fifty-two out of one hundred and ten of the brave Michigan boys of the 20th were shot that day, and every man who died, died perfectly sober.

SINCE Judge Furst has set such a terrible seal of condemnation upon the illegal handling of liquor, such cases have become a rarity. He has now made a new ruling to send all young men, under 24 years of age, who are brought before him on a charge preferred by any female, to the Huntingdon Reformatory. Now if the Court would only make some similar ruling applicable to assault and battery cases, it might be that by the time his term as President Judge has expired it would not be necessary to elect another one, which would be another great saving to the county.

The only true practical
ELIXIR OF LIFE AND HEALTH.
is one that promotes digestion, improves the appetite, cleanses the liver, purifies the blood, and stimulates brain and nerves without injurious reaction, and one that may be taken alike by adult or infant. Profane compounds, made of vile rum or bad whiskey, sweetened and flavored, under the titles of bitters, tonics, &c, produce effects far worse than the disease for which they are taken.

Vinegar Bitters is a pure tonic, a nervine without being narcotic, a purifier without poison, a liver tonic without purging, and above all, a life-giving stimulant without alcohol. The only medicine with such powers in the world.

A GENUINE TEMPERANCE BEVERAGE, far surpassing alcohol in any shape as a tonic it might be called LIQUID LIFE,
since it stimulates, invigorates and regulates digestion, nutrition, secretion, excretion, respiration, and all the functions whereby life is maintained—we literally take in vitality in spoonsful.

It is too much to assert that the equal of Vinegar Bitters does not exist, and no counterpart or compound with similar virtues has ever been known.

CALIFORNIA,
if remarkable for nothing else, would be immortalized by the production of the medicinal fruits, roots and herbs of which this Bitters is composed. Many of them used by the Indians and the medical profession in the treatment of chills and fevers, rheumatism, catarrh, consumption, neuralgia, headaches, liver complaint, kidney disease, jaundice, gout, piles, boils, skin diseases, &c., &c., too numerous to mention, but easily understood when the action of the Bitters on the vital functions is remembered. —Coal is going up.

—Court again this week.

—Valentine day approacheth.

—Only eleven more months in 1891.

—Get your job work done at the DAILY NEWS office.

—Eggs are coming down—25 cents a dozen now.

—Idle men are exceedingly numerous on the streets of Bellefonte.

—It is possible the Centre Iron works will be put in operation about March 1st.

—If some man would invent a substitute for potatoes he would soon make a fortune.

—Mrs. Gen. Hastings and Mrs. George Porter are the guests of Mrs. Haines, in Philadelphia.

—Quite a large number of strangers are in town this week—called here to attend court.

—A big "blow out" was given to Sheriff Cooke at his home in Howard on Thursday night.

—A rare curiosity—a newspaper edited by those persons who could do it better than the editor.

—Miss Mary Green is again at home after quite an extended visit with friends at Northumberland and vicinity.

—Mr. and Mrs. Foster, of State College, are visiting Mrs. Foster's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Haupt, on Logan street.

Miss Emma Aiken returned home on Saturday from Worcester, Ohio, where she has been taking a course in music.

—Mrs. Geo. Jackson gave a very enjoyable euchre party in honor of Mrs. Brown, of Jersey Shore, Monday evening.

—Hurrah for Irl Hicks and the ground hog! They both knew what they were doing. The storm predicted has come.

—Not only think of them, but help the poor all you can. There are many in Bellefonte who need a little assistance,

—Some people in Bellefonte are very sound sleepers. Quite a large number didn't hear the thunder on Thursday night.

—The winds howl in and around every corner. If we have not got the snow we surely have the wintry weather.

—There are more professional and business men in Bellefonte than in any other town of twice its size in this or any other State.

—A small runaway caused a little sensation on High street Monday morning. Fortunately nobody was injured or no damage done.

—The religious meetings which have been going on in the Presbyterian chapel for some weeks past have been discontinued.

—There is good reason to believe that there is now a couple "Miss Nancy's" holding forth in the court house. Is this the case, gentlemen?

—The lecture by Dr. Weaver in the new United Brethren church, on Monday evening, was highly spoken of by those who heard it.

—Mr. Samuel Parker, an old man 85 years of age, died this morning at his home in the brick row. The cause of his death was old age.

—On Friday a society young man named over a list of eight Bellefonte youths, who, rumor says, are to be married before the roses bloom.

—About fifteen young ladies and gentlemen engaged in a progressive eucher party at the residence of Mr. Jacob Thomas on Thursday evening.

—Mr. William E Crust, of Buffalo Run, announces that at one o'clock on March 20th, he will expose at public sale farm stock and implements.

—This was a bad morning for tramps. It seems as if in the severe thunder storm of Thursday night it must have rained that species of gentlemen.

—Cards are out announcing the marriage, on February 10th, of Miss Carrie M., daughter of J A Quigley, of Blanchard, and Mr. W D Horne.

—The localizer of the Watchman had better be a little more conservative in some of his expressions or else post the editorial writer to look "a leedle oudt."

—Governor Beaver was in Philadelphia on Friday transacting a little businenn and shaking hands with old friends. General Hastings is also there.

—Philipsburgers are rejoicing over the prospects of a new depot to be erected by the Pennsylvania railroad company in that place in the near future.

—The new United Brethren church was dedicated on Sunday. It is a beautiful house of worship and that congregation deserves considerable credit for the erection of such a church.

—Gregg Post is considering the advisability of giving an entertainment on Washington's birthday. Gen. Fisher has kindly consented to lecture for them.

—The ice suitable for skating is all melted and now roller skates are again called into service, and the boys ann girls can be seen rolling along the pavements of Bellefonte.

—On Friday night there was no electric light burning at corner of Lamb and Ridge streets while at Allegheny and Lamb there was both an incandescent and arc light. Why was this thus?

—John G. Love, Esq., is suffering from a severe cold and on Tuesday was so ill he could not carry on his legal business before the Court and in consequence several cases were continued.

—On Monday morning Mr. Robert Merriman, of Point Lookout, near Philipsburg, fell into the Moshannon Creek and was drowned before help could arrive He was intoxicated at the time. What a lesson for the intemperate.

—Gosh! but it does make the editor of the ring organ flop his ears now that he again has a chance to stick his head into the public crib and draw forth good mouthfuls. And yet it has been nothing towards what he expects to get.

—Mr. John McCarvey, a man who was well known in Bellefonte and who was married to a Mrs. Howard, a Bellefonte lady, died in Cincinnati on Monday. The remains were brought to Altoona, where interment was made Wednesday.

—The Lutheran church social will be held at the residence of Mrs. L. A. Schaeffer, on East Curtin street, on Thursday evening. All persons are invited to attend. Elegant refreshments will be served and a royal good time is anticipated. Don't fail to come.

—The next play in the Bellefonte opera house will be "Daniel Boone," on the 12th, while the "Broom-maker of Carlsbad" will return on or about the 20th. "Rip Van Winkle is still sleeping, so that Bellefonte people will not have an opportunity of seeing him this week.

—The trees on the lawn and in the street in front of the residence of Adjutant General Hastings have been nicely as well as closely, trimmed and will, no doubt, make a much better appearance next summer when the leaves are out in full than they have heretofore.

—Let all voters remember that the February election is drawing closer every day. Tuesday, February 17th, is the day on which you will be called to the polls to deposit your ballot for borough officers. See that you vote for good men, good government and equalization of the water tax.

—Cards are out announcing the wedding of Miss Emma R., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Heckman, of Centre Hall, to Dr. D. G. Smith, of Snyder county. The ceremony will take place at the residence of the bride's parents on Wednesday, February 11, 1891. Congratulations.

—The arc light comes near playing havoc with the telephone on some of the lines in the northern part of the town. When the hand phone is put to the ear there is a continual buzzing sound as of an engine running at a high rate of speed, and when you come to talk it is necessary to repeat several times in order that the operator at the central office can understand.

—The Sheriff's per centage from the sale of the real estate of the Centre Iron Company on Thursday is probably the largest fee he will collect during his term. It amounted to $975. This would almost pay the Sheriff's campaign bills. The real estate was purchased by Mr. Gephart for the bondholders for $195,000. A meeting is now arranged to be held on February 6th at which time a decision as to what will be done will be arrived at. It is more than likely that the works will be leased to the company organized and composed of home capitalists as mentioned in this paper some time ago.

—His Honor, Judge Krebs, evidently knows how to deal with scoundrels, though his sentence does not appear on any of the statute books. On Monday while in an altercation with a tough customer in the court house at Clearfield the fellow called the Judge a liar; the Judge retaliated by immediately knocking the the man down. This is like summary law in the far west, but it is the best under many circumstances. Now the question arises: Should that man prosecute the Judge for assault and battery, could His Honor sit on his own case, hear the evidence and then pass sentence should he be convicted?

—Sara Bernhardt is once more in America, having arrived Monday noon. Report says that Sara's thinness is the same—no change in that respect—and she has not grown older in looks. It would be a great pity if this wonderful actress should be caught in a blizzard and blown away, or accidentally fall through a crack in the floor. Two guardian angels accompany her in the shape of a large Danish hound and a 'little curly haired terrier. New Yorkers will have five weeks in which to drink in the wonders of this fascinating actress. Then she will be in Philadelphia one week and in Bellefonte—haven't heard just how long.

A COMPETING LINE.

If Built it Will Make a New Bellefonte.

One Company Offers Half the Money it Will Take to Complete the B. R., B. and B. E. V. R. R.—A Bellefonte Man Offers to Contribute.

For some time past there has been a very quiet rumor going the rounds that there was talk of completing the Buffalo Run, Bellefonte and Bald Eagle Valley Railroad through to Beech Creek to connect with the Beech Creek and Southwestern Railroad at that place and thus give Bellefonte a competing line through to all the Eastern cities as well as to all the coal and coke fields. The same story had been told so often that it had grown to be somewhat of a chestnut and very little account has of late been taken of such talk, but on Friday a DAILY NEWS reporter was told by a Bellefonte gentleman that there now was more probability of the road being completed than ever before.

The recent rise in freight tariff by the Pennsylvania Railroad creates a greater demand than ever for a competing line from Central Pennsylvania east. And now one moneyed firm of New York has offered to furnish half the money required to build the road from here to Beech Creek, if the people of this town and vicinity, or any other man, men or company, would furnish the balance. It is estimated that it would require about $250,000 to build the road. Of this sum, then, the one half, or $125,000. is secured, One Bellefonte capitalist on Friday said that he would furnish $25,000, and there are several others; altogether it is likely that from fifty to seventy-five thousand dollars could be raised here with very little effort. This would leave but a very small balance to raise.

Now if only some of the influential and moneyed men of Bellefonte would take a hold on this movement and shove it right along, there is little doubt that the road would be built. And what a glorious thing for Bellefonte it would be. Then would Col. Spangler's prediction be verified. It would be the making of a new Bellefonte. All the industries that are now here could, and undoubtedly would, be put in operation. Other industries would come here and various manufactories would doubtless be erected. Bellefonte would rapidly increase in population. Work would be plenty and everybody would be happy. Let not this golden opportunity pass by unheeded, but take advantage of it and in the future reap the benefit.

OUR MAN ABOUT TOWN.

Hears and Sees Things Interesting and Readable—In the Court Room and on the Street.

Our "Man About Town" happened in to the hall of justice on Friday afternoon, he being informed beforehand that argument court was in progress, and there found ten spectators—common ordinary people, all of them—eleven lawyers, two Judges and four tipstaff's all the latter asleep in their chairs and at the same time kept very busy trying to keep C P Hewes, Esq., "in order" whenever he would get overloud in an attempt to convince their Honors that his side of the case was the right side. Just how long Mr. Hewes talked was not known but if he talked as lengthy as he was emphatic he is probably talking yet.

It seems to be the general opinion of both the company and citizens that there should be twice as many arc lights in Bellefonte as there are now. And now if the former would agree to furnish lights at the same rate they do in other places—$5 a light per month—it is more than likely that the citizens would be willing they should put up another eighteen.

It is very nice to know that improvements, in the way of repairing old buildings and erecting new ones, is continually going on but it makes the streets look like rural highways to see piles of lumber, stone, brick and mortar about every square or so all over the town. One never gets to see the beauty of Bellefonte because of these numerous eyesores.

The butchers of Philipsburg have formed a combine to raise and keep up the price of meat. The barbers are talking of doing likewise—they want double pay for cutting the hair of a baldheaded man because it takes up so much time to find it:

An old soldier said on Friday that the youthful editor of the Centre Democrat ought to have his jacket dusted or else be forced to marry a red-headed girl.

Associate Judge Riley went to Howard on Thursday night to participate in the reception given to Sheriff Cooke. As he has not been seen since it is supposed he is still "receiving."

We hear that two or three merchants in Bellefonte are trying to break over, or rather abolish the rule of closing at 8 o'clock. Now this is wrong, all wrong. Eight o'clock in the evening is late enough for any store to be kept open, with the exception, perhaps, of Saturday evening. When a clerk goes to work at 6.30 or 7 o'clock in the morning he feels very much like quitting at 8 o'clock, and the merchant who is not satisfied at that time in the evening has certainly gotten into the wrong class of animals. And besides, what is the use in keeping open later when there is not enough business done to keep all hands busy during the day? Don't break the good rule, but close promptly at eight o'clock, sharp.

Linn streeters are complaining of an overly large cat crop. They say they are to be found in the cellar window, cellar door, in the cellar, on the porch, in the vestibule, on the back fence, side fence, and front fence, on the door steps, under the steps, in the grape arbor, under the boardwalk and two and three thick all over the yard. There's the little cat and big cat, the white cat and black cat, the mouser and the rat cat, the tom cat and polecat, the brick bat and boot jack, the soprano and the basso cat, all gathered together at one time a cat-er-waulin' to beat everlasting. If the nuisance continues much longer Linn streeters will petition Council to put a premium on cat scalps.

Although Saturday was a good day for ducks, our "man about town" did not see but one "soaked goslin" on the streets of Bellefonte. Just where that fellow got his "firewater" is hard to tell but as he lives out towards Philipsburg it is supposed he went to Clearfield for it. The temperance sentiment is not only growing, but is proving to be strong and healthy and not likely to soon wither and die.

It may be that, from a Democratic standpoint, the Republican administration of the past three years was not what it might have been; but in all that time there was never such a discovery made as there was on Monday. As a matter of course the warm weather of the past week or so has been hard on the snow and in consequence thereof the large snow piles in the court house yard have melted down to a few inches in thickness and on Monday a boy who passed by gave a war whoop of delight, occasioned by the thought that he had found a buried drug store or bar room. He proceeded at once to investigate and before stopping, we are told, unearthed some ten or fifteen pint bottles that had evidently been full of "bed bug poison," and, after the stuff had all been used the bottles were buried there as the easiest means of getting rid of them. Now the question that arises is simply this: Is it the main court room or one of the offices that is so badly infested with bed bugs? Janitor Galbraith had better investigate.

Foreign labor and foreign emigration —when its coming this way—should be condemned by every newspaper and employer in the land; but there is one thing about Hungarians that some Americans might practice with profit. When they are thrown out of a job at one place they lose no time in hunting another; this was evidenced by the large number of men of that nationality, late employes of the Bellefonte Furnace Company, who emigrated from Bellefonte on Monday.

If the large and unsightly snow banks which are piled along the side of every street in Bellefonte were shovelled out into the middle of the street it would add much to the looks of Bellefonte and make good sleighing for a month to come.

All the amusement loving people in Bellefonte are clamoring for a good comic opera. If Manager Garman could secure a good company for one, two or three nights he would be sure of good houses.

That new railroad boom is growing and if it don't catch cold or get a chill it may grow to a great big thing, but this changeable weather is hard on it.

Did it ever occur to any of the NEWS readers how many precious hours are wasted by all classes of business men while waiting in a barber shop for the long-coming "next" which tells them that at last their probation is served and they have the privilege, as well as pleasure, of getting into the deep cushoined chair and be lathered all over the face and then scraped from ear to ear. Suppose a man was to get shaved twice a week every week during the year; and that every time he is obliged to wait one half hour on his turn—sometimes it is a great deal longer—that would be one hour a week, 52 hours in the year. If a business man his time is worth not less than 50 cents an hour; there would be $26 he looses annually while waiting to get shaved But this is only one side of the question. Where is the man who does not experience a sense of comfort and pleasure while reclining comfortably in the large, easy chair while the barber gets in his work. And where can a man get 52 hours of enjoyment and amusement for a smaller sum than $26? So you see the barber shop is an excellent institution after all. The above is but the brief of an argument heard on our streets yesterday.

How often one hears or sees in print a common name that appears simply ludricrous. But if a person desires to see all the fun there is in christened and given names they have only to take up a marriage certificate docket and read over the list of those persons to whom licenses have been granted, Some of the apparently greatest incongruities appear in the thus mating of names.

"A public office is a public trust," and yet your "Man About Town" overheard one of the recently installed democratic officials say that he considered himself under no responsibility to take care of property transferred to him by his predecessor. Wonder if this official considers it obligatory on him assuming the responsibility of taking care of the county records in his office.

SEASONABLE SNAP SHOTS.

As Gathered and Written by a Fair Correspondent.

Smiles and tears—the weather yesterday.

We have had a gloriously good winter, but judging from present appearances it is about over, and we seem to be sailing right into Spring. If this weather continues it will not be long until we are greeted by that dainty little harbinger of Spring, the onion. How the thoughts of its crispness and delicate flavor makes one's mouth water! Then in anticipation comes strawberries and cream, and --guess I'll come back to the present or I might get snowed on.

Saturday seemed to be quite a day for hunting. Some people were house hunting while others sought the woods for game. The small boy was hunting a patch of snow suitable for sliding purposes. But the hunter who met with the poorest success was the man who was hunting money. Game of this kind is very scarce. Possibly the best success was attained in the evening by those who hunted dear.

If you happen to see upon our streets some small children selling paper dolls, buy some. The amount derived from the sales is added to the fund being raised by the Presbyterian ladies to buy a new organ for the church. This organ has been talked of for so long as to have apparently ended there. Such is not the case, however, as the amount now reaches over $700, and if the ladies do not conclude to use the money for any other purpose the organ may some day materialize. A large church like the Presbyterian should have a pipe organ, and a first class one, too. Let the loud tones of exquisite melody from such an instrument vibrate to the extreme corners of that large edifice and add a few more good voices to those who already constitute the choir and we believe it will awaken a better spiritual interest in the church than can be done in any other way, Then let there be more light for the evening service—not spiritual light, for that shines forth undimmed from the altar at every discourse—but what I mean is more artificial light to enable those in the congregation to see well enough to follow the hymns. Under the cover of this semi-darkness there is a great deal of whispering in the rear end of the building which is very annoying. Let there be more light and better music and we believe the attendance at this church will increase.

A party of well known people in Bellefonte attended the opera in Philadelphia last week. The party was composed of Mr. and Mrs, James Lane, with Mrs. John Lane, of this place, who has been their guest during the past week; also Mr. and Mrs. Spangler, who were in the city at that time doing some shopping. The ladies were very tastefully dressed and wore bouquets of natural cut flowers.

In the absence of all other amusement the mules which haul Johnston's express wagon furnished their share of entertainment to all beholders. Their last gymnastic exhibition was given on East Linn street and they made things lively for a little while.

The crossings are again in a terrible condition, made so by the continued rain and thaw.

A Linn street man laid aside a pencil which was worn very dull because he said to his wife, it is too much like you. She thanked him, but told him she could not see the point.

The rumor that a brass foundry was to be started in Bellefonte has proved to be incorrect. Some of our townsmen were indulging in air castles. Should such an enterprise ever be started it would not suffer for want of material, as we have plenty of it right here in town.

Now somebody has invented a new electric switch—this at the back of the head and bangs over the face, frizzled with an electric curler, is it any wonder that women can electrify.

If you hear a great many ladies remark that she had a delightful ride with Dr. Harris, don't be shocked for it is only Miss Edith and not Dr. George.

On Wednesday afternoon last I saw what seemed to me to be an enormous black crow among the branches of a tree in the lawn surrounding the residence of General Hastings, but upon close inspection it proved to be only Ben Williams sawing off some of the surperfluous branches.

It is an undeniable fact that the average lady caller nowadays commences her conversation with the inquiry, "Have you a good girl now?" Then follows a discussion as to the merits and demerits of different girls whom they have had in their employ. In fact, the girl question is a sticker, and is apt to remain in popularity until spring time, when it is very apt to get side-tracked for the new spring bonnet, which is generally an absorbing topic of discussion by the average female.

"Good souls!" I heard a maiden lady exclaim, while her face indicated a severe nervous shock. "It is enough to give one the fidgets, for everywhere you go some one is sure to screech out 'They're after me, they're after me.'' Then she murmured nervously that she wished they would catch all of them, and lock them up, too. She did not know that it is a song which is likely to cause as much misery as "Little Annie Rooney."

The drawing-room and parlor seems to have reached its zenith of glory while its chairs, lounges and pictures rest contentedly beneath their draperies of china silk and rich furbelows. Just now the dining-room is coming in for its full share of attention. Deft fingers and busy brains conjure up some exquisite conceits in table apparel; beautifully embroidered luncheon cloths, doylies and centre pieces seem to be the favorite work among ladies of artistic taste. Some of the doylies are of bolting cloth, hand-painted in delicate patterns, then some of them are worked in plain linen merely hemstitched, while others are outlined in fine flower designs, in colored wash-silk. Such doylies are much admired, as they give a dainty trace of color over an expanse of plain white.
